

Meet the Candidates on April 5

Next Tuesday is your chance to meet the candidates one-on-one and then watch the live debate. Don't miss it!

WILMINGTON - Don't miss your chance to meet the candidates for Board of Selectmen and School Committee during this year's Candidates Night, sponsored by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, Reading Cooperative Bank, Town

Crier, and WCTV.

The evening, which will be held at WCTV Studios at 10 Waltham Street, takes place on Tuesday, April 5, and will begin with a Meet the Candidates reception. The public is invited to attend for the opportunity to speak one-on-one with the candidates in a relaxed setting, while enjoying refreshments provided by Reading Cooperative Bank.

A formal debate between the candidates for Board of Selectmen will begin at 6:30, and will be followed at approximately 7:40 by a debate between candidates for School Committee. The debates will be aired live on WCTV and will be replayed leading up to the Annual town Election.

The debates will provide an outstanding opportunity for candidates to articulate their positions on key issues facing Wilmington and to differentiate themselves from their opponents.

McCoy sounds off

Blasts fellow Board members

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - Selectman Michael McCoy used the public comment period of Monday's meeting to blast his fellow selectmen for supporting a non-incumbent candidate. He especially focused on Michael Champoux, calling him out for allegedly trying to intimidate McCoy during an executive session. The tirade fell flat with the rest of the board.

"I've stated many times that we may have differences of opinion, but yet we get the peoples' business done and in all of my 21 years as a selectman, it's perhaps the most civil board I have served on," said McCoy as he began his statement. "The most frequent question asked of me today is, 'why are there three sitting members on the Board of Selectmen supporting your opponent, Judy O'Connell?' I shrug it off and say, 'it's politics.'"

"In 21 years as a selectman," McCoy continued, "I have never seen three sitting selectmen do that, especially when two incumbents are up for re-election. I have no problem with that, it's America and you can support whomever you want."

"The one selectman I take issue with is Mike Champoux."

Wilmington election coverage 2011

By JAYNE W. MILLER

This year, with four candidates seeking two open seats for Board of Selectmen, and five candidates seeking two seats on the School Committee, the Crier has changed its typical format for election coverage. Each week candidates will be asked a question or two about current issues and campaign topics and their responses will be printed in their own words. This way, residents will see a side-by-side approach to the top issues of the campaigns and be able to make informed decisions on election day.

The candidates comments are their own and do not represent the views of this newspaper. The order in which candidate answers appear was chosen at random and will change each week.

Board of Selectmen race

Town Manager selection

For the first time in 20 years the town of Wilmington will be looking for a new Town Manager when veteran Michael Caira retires at the end of Fiscal Year 2012.

BusinessWeek Magazine recently selected Wilmington as the best affordable town in Massachusetts. That kind of recognition acknowledges that Wilmington provides essential services while staying within the budget and without charging extraordinary fees, a mark of sound fiscal leadership. The Board of Selectmen will be integrally involved in the selection of this new candidate, who will steward Wilmington's fiscal ship. This week the Crier asked candidates what their priorities will be for the selection of a new town manager.

work with all levels of employees, from department heads down to custodians and secretaries. We need negotiation skills and experience with how to negotiate with unions and non-unions. You have to have strong character. We have to have a manager that understands what the school budgets need. Obviously, we need hiring skills to hire good, sound department heads. That's what makes the quality of the town. That's what I will be looking for and what I've

21st Century education

School Superintendent Joanne Benton talks often about providing Wilmington students with a 21st century education. A little more than ten years into that century, our nation is starting to see a renaissance in technology in education. This week the Crier asked the candidates to elucidate their visions for a twenty-first century education in Wilmington. Responses tackled technology, curriculum, and policy, some more specific than others. This week, readers have the opportunity to learn a little more about how these candidates want to shape the future of education for every child in town.

Leslee Quick:

"The 21st century classroom - as it exists and evolves - promotes interaction, collaboration and critical thinking unlike ever before. Before, we learned to use technology; now we use technology to learn."

The classroom is evolving into a place where the teacher serves as lecturer and

School Committee reviews Strategic Planning Survey

By DAWN DICICCO

WILMINGTON - The results are in and the town is talking: The hot button issue at last Wednesday's school committee meeting was the analysis of the strategic plan survey results.

Every five years, community members, school faculty and Wilmington Public School students are asked to comment on the school's success in achieving or making progress towards completing their self-defined goals. Such a survey was sent out on February 1, 2011 and the response was astounding: 242 community members, 263 staff members and 948 students from sixth through 12th grade completed the strategic planning survey, marking a vast improvement from the 40 community members who participated in strategic planning meetings five years ago.

The survey's results were just what the school committee expected. Superintendent Joanne Benton commented, "I do not think [the results] will be a surprise to you...they were not to me."

The survey identified five areas in which the Wilmington Public Schools should concentrate effort on improving in the next five years: science and engineering classes, up-to-date facilities, professional development for teachers, the amount of technology available in classrooms, and student support services.

Chamber celebrates 50th in style

Dick Hoyt delivers inspirational presentation

By MARCY RAGUCCI

WILMINGTON - Board Members, members and guests gathered for the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce's annual luncheon at the Shriners Auditorium in Wilmington, MA last week to celebrate the Chamber's 50th anniversary. Over the last 50 years, both businesses and residents have worked together to make meaningful contributions to the community in which they work and/or live.

An added bonus to this auspicious celebration was the presence of an inspiring guest speaker, Dick Hoyt, who will soon celebrate an equally outstanding benchmark of 50 years - the birth of his remarkable son, Rick who was diagnosed as a spastic quadriplegic with cerebral palsy attributed to a lack of oxygen at birth. Many are already familiar with the amazing story of Dick and Rick Hoyt, a father and son team who have been running in the Boston Marathon since

Wilmington Chamber of Commerce Executive Director, Nancy Vallee began the momentous occasion by thanking members, board members and state and town officials for their support throughout the years.

Vallee dispensed with reviewing chamber activities and financials from last year and said, "I want to take the time to just celebrate the fact that, after 50 years, the chamber remains a viable non-profit organization and continues to be a valuable resource for not only our business community, but for our community as a whole."

Continuing with obvious excitement about the chamber's accomplishment, Vallee noted, "It all started 50 years ago. The town was in a tremendous growth phase and several leaders in the business community saw a need to form a Chamber of Commerce to help boost Wilmington as a business community - and, over the years, the chamber has done just that."

Citing the Chamber's adherence to its original mission, Vallee enumerated changes in communication to better reflect the way companies do business. Phone calls have been reduced while email communications steadily increase. The newsletter is now distributed electronically. The Chamber's website (www.wilmingtonbusiness.com) lists their Member Directory and offers hyperlinks to member's websites. Rounding out the menu of full service and availability, the Chamber now boasts its own page on Facebook (Facebook.com/wilmington.business) and is on Twitter (Twitter.com/wilmbusiness), too!

To further commemorate its anniversary, the Chamber unveiled its new logo to carry the organization through the next 50 years. Encouraging participation from members and Wilmington residents, the Chamber also partnered with Wilmington High School Visual Arts Teacher, Jennifer Fidler who directed her students to create their own design and vision for the Chamber logo.

After review by the selection committee, a design submitted by Tom Friberg, Production Manager for Aleppo News at Shriners Auditorium was chosen. Friberg received $150 in gift cards from restaurants in Wilmington. Friberg's modern design incorporates the bold outline of the town in green - to signify a green community - with a sweeping line running through it depicting how the Chamber connects with the town since its establishment in 1961. The open oval space in the logo may be utilized in the future to customize the logo to accommodate seasons or events like the Fourth of July. New door decals will be provided to Chamber members shortly.

The selection committee was so impressed with the designs that they awarded an Honorable Mention and gift cards to WHS 10th grade students, Sara Pudvelis and Ryan Cocca, as well as 11th grader, Nathan McGilvray, for their outstanding effort.

Newly re-elected Chamber President, Holly Nahabedian, who will again serve as President for 2011, remarked, "I also know the commitment involved in its (Chamber's) success. Being a non-profit

ANNUITIES

Annuities can offer safe, life-long income in retirement - if one chooses carefully.

Safest for retirees are immediate income annuities: the individual turns over a lump sum - often from a 401(k) payout - to an insurance company; in return he or she gets guaranteed monthly checks, usually for life, no matter what the economy or the market does.

Choosing the right annuity hinges on two important points: the return offered by the insurer and the dependability of the company. Check A.M. Best and Standard & Poor's for ratings.

How much of your savings should you invest in an annuity? Not all of the nest egg; once you've given over that money, you can't get it back. One idea is to invest enough so that the annuity payments and Social Security and pension meet most essential bills, leaving the rest of your portfolio for discretionary expenses. It's also wise to buy in stages, to maximize interest rates.

When it comes to financial planning, talk to the "can do" professionals at Nahabedian thanked everyone connected with the Chamber for their vision, development and execution of the Chamber's mission and credited them as the reason the Chamber is celebrating a 50th anniversary.

"I want to touch upon other ways we are involved with the town. In addition to participating annually in the town's Fourth of July celebration and holiday tree lighting, the Chamber gives back to other local, non-profits via donations or sponsorships," said Nahabedian.

Nahabedian continued, "Last year, the Chamber took over the coordination of the Wilmington's Annual Half Marathon & 5K Road Race. While a huge undertaking for us, we were thrilled with the participation of racers and community support." Over 550 racers and walkers participated.

Proceeds from that race allowed the Chamber to donate to The Kelli Murray Scholarship Fund and Nahabedian presented a check for $5,000 to Superintendent of

After announcing, "On Sunday, September 25th, Wilmington's 7th Annual Half Marathon & 5K Road Race will take place. Team Hoyt has already penciled that date on their calendar to run in the 5K," Nahabedian introduced guest speaker, Dick Hoyt.

The lights dimmed and a video highlighting events from the larger-than-life Team Hoyt and how their journey in running began in 1977 - in a standard wheelchair participating in a 5-mile benefit race to raise money for a young Lacrosse player who had been paralyzed in an accident.

While Dick spoke in calm, informal manner straight from his heart, his words resonated loudly throughout the room striking his audience soundly and holding them captive awaiting each detail he revealed of the story of Team Hoyt and how they came to be recognized all over the world.

Dick told the heartbreaking story of when he and Rick's mother were given Rick's devastating diagnosis along with the cruel recommendation that he be put in an institution because he would be no more than a vegetable.

"We're still trying to figure out what kind of vegetable that is," joked Dick. Refusing to accept the doctor's advice, Rick's parents set out to "raise our son the best we can." They both became advocates for Rick.

As Dick related his amazing story to luncheon attendees, a series of slides played in the background detailing the journey Dick and his son have traveled. You could hear a pin drop while Dick spoke and, looking out into the room, men and women alike were visibly affected and some seemed to be dabbing a tear or two from their face.

Adding levity to the serious subject matter, Dick touted softly, "We've never come in last in a run, but we did come in second to last in two runs."

In Dick's book (Devoted The Story of a Father's Love For His Son written with Don Yaeger) he remembers what Rick said after that first race in 1977, "Dad, when I'm running, it feels like my disability disappears."

An unwavering mix of determination, faith, courage and hard work as well as their inseparable bond has contributed to Team Hoyt's success and enabled them to travel the world speaking out to educate the public about people with disabilities and promoting the Team Hoyt motto "Yes You Can".

Proof of their yes-you-can attitude is the fact that Team Hoyt has competed in marathons and triathlons around the world. In fact, in the last 30 years, they have competed in over 1,000 events - running in 28 Boston Marathons and six Ironman Triathlons.

military and is a retired Lieutenant Colonel while Rick earned a degree in Special Education from Boston University after nine long years.

Rick has his own book; Rick's Story - The Story of Rick Hoyt written by Sherrie Nintean. It was written for children to help them be aware of disabilities.

Dick is local to this area, was one of ten children and was the third generation of Hoyt's born at Winchester Hospital. He lived in Winchester until his family moved to North Reading. Rick was also born at Winchester Hospital.

Girl Scout Scavenger Hunt

Dear Editor,
I'd like to extend a big thank you to families, friends, and merchants in Tewksbury for their overwhelming support of the Girl Scout Scavenger Hunt on Saturday night. Local merchants were incredibly gracious and enthusiastic in providing the scouts with items on their lists for the hunt. Several locations allowed the scouts to use their establishments for photographs and helped provide answers to clues. And countless households dug through their treasures at a moment's notice to find Halloween skeletons, sombreros, and Valentine conversation hearts. Certainly, participation like this reinforces the feeling of community in Tewksbury for all of us.

Sincerely,
Paige F. Impink,

Another successful Trivia Night for TMHS PAC

Dear Editor,
On Friday, March 11, 33 teams of 10 gathered at the Tewksbury Country Club to participate in the 4th Annual TMHS PAC Trivia Night. Seven rounds of questions later, it was the Rauseo team, "Genetically Predisposed," who pulled out the Championship win! The Wynn Middle School and Miller teams had to answer one final question to break the tie for second place but in the end the Wynn "Wynn-ers" prevailed. The Asselin table won best theme as the "geeks" who came to show everyone just how smart they can look.

The TMHS PAC would like to thank the Tewksbury Country Club for their generosity and we would like to thank the following business/families for making donations to our raffle table: Applebee's, Aurora Salon, Balance Spa, Capellini's Italian Restaurant, Chili's of Reading, Chili's of Wilmington, Cracker Barrel, The DiGiorgio Family, The Dunlevy Family, Elements Therapeutic Massage, Hair by Marie, J&B Butcher, The Kuegler Family, Longhorn Steakhouse, The Loschiavo Family, Luna Rosa Restaurant, Massage ME - Billerica, Mango II Tai Cuisine, Marriot Residence Inn of Tewksbury, The Poli Family, The Rauseo Family, Trull Brook Golf Club, and The Wallace Family. Thank you to Preferred Distributors for their donation of balloons. Thank you to all our volunteers: Paula Fairweather, Kathy Benvenuto, Joanne Foley, Linda Poli, Cathy Burgoyne, Lisa Kuegler, Loretta Ryan and Keith Rauseo. A special thank you to Diane Dulevy for organizing the raffle table and to Maura Rauseo for organizing the fundraiser for the past four years. Money raised from this event will go back to all the students and staff at TMHS thru things like enrichment programs, technology, supplies, and scholarships.

FinCom recommends 'Yes'

Dear Editor,
The Tewksbury Finance Committee is recommending a yes vote on the April 2, 2011 Ballot Question. The Finance Committee's recommendation recognizes that the Ballot Question presents a difficult and expensive issue. There are no easy answers.

However, in the judgment of the Finance Committee, a yes vote on the April 2, 2011 Ballot Question represents a fair and reasonable solution for all parties.

A vote for O'Connell

Dear Editor,
I am writing to express my support for Judy O'Connell for election to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen on April 23rd. I have known Judy for several years, and she is a dedicated, honest professional. Judy's community involvement and commitment to Wilmington is evident. I spent several years serving on the Wilmington School Committee with Judy, and her hard work and perseverance were second to none. She is a forward-thinking person, who takes this community's best interest to heart, and will render a tremendous service to our town.

I am confident that Judy will serve Wilmington in the best way possible. I wish her the best of luck!

Sincerely,

A vote for O'Connell

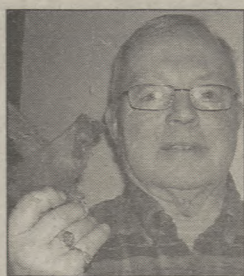

Dear Editor:
Please allow me this opportunity to thank the many friends and supporters who attended Judy O'Connell's event on Saturday night. As Judy's cousin, I can assure you that your generosity and enthusiastic support are greatly appreciated. As one of her biggest fans, I guarantee you that your confidence is well placed.

I have admired Judy my whole life, because I have personally witnessed the class, the intelligence and the work ethic that Judy demonstrates when she takes on any challenge, and this challenge of running for Selectman is no different. If you already know Judy, then I am sure that you agree with me, and I encourage you to remember to vote on April 23rd. If you do not yet know her, please pay attention to the campaign and decide for yourself what kind of person Judy is. Undoubtedly, you will find her to be honest, smart and well informed, and that she has what it takes to serve as a leader in this town for many years to come.

Thank you again for your support, and please do not forget to vote on April 23rd.

Sincerely,

Bird and Blooms

by Gerry Duggan

Have you noticed? Many red wings, bronze grackles and robins are around. And, the slate junco flocks are thinning. I had my first small group of the red winged blackbirds and bronze grackles show up at the end of February.

As I have written before, Don Kent, channel 4 meteorologist from many years ago, said the true signs of spring are the red winged blackbirds and bronzed grackles, because they always migrate and the robin, which many see as a sign of spring, don't always head south if a food source is available. The robins that did migrate are back in large numbers, you can see them on many grassy areas around town. A neighbor reported seeing a flicker at her suet feeder. I had regular visits by a red-bellied woodpecker all winter. It not only feeds on suet, it eats lots of hulled sunflower seeds.

Betty on Chestnut St. reported she had a red-headed woodpecker at her feeders all winter. I have never seen a red-headed woodpecker, although when reading the bird sightings in the Sunday Globe, there have been reports of redheaded woodpeckers in Lowell many times. I'm optimistic that one of these days one will be at my feeder.

I had many downy and hairy woodpeckers all winter. The other regulars at my house are the house sparrows, which are already pairing up and claiming nesting boxes, house finches, savannah sparrow, fox sparrow and the American tree sparrow, chickadees, tufted titmouse, red-breasted and white-breasted nuthatches, but no rock doves around. Also, the American gold finch, which you will notice the male is already having subtle changes in its color.

I have lots of blue jays; counted 14 one day and another day lost count when approaching 20. Anyone need a few jays? The blue jay can make short work of sunflower seed as they fill those small pouches in their cheeks and take the seed away to stash and come back again and again for more.

I have many mourning doves and the regular gang of crows. I have a picnic table in an out-of-the-way spot, I put meat scraps and bread on this table. The crow, who is large and aggressive toward hawks and robs nest of smaller birds, is very timid when I put out stuff for them to eat. One will start calling his buddies when it sees the food, but will not go near it until reinforcements arrive. One will approach the food in kind of a sideways walk, jumping back at times as though the food was jumping at them. After finally getting close enough, it will grab a piece of food, jump back and fly off. At that, the others numbering about 10 will then proceed to do the same. In the meantime, the blue jays, which are bolder, will have taken a lot of the food that I have put out for the crows. The crows at times will stand on a large suet basket and take some but, not a lot of suet. They will also come to the seed feeder area of my yard, probably when things are tough, and pick at seed that has dropped on the ground. The other birds, which go after crows during nesting season, don't pay any attention to them.

The prize for the most male cardinals goes to me, since I received no reports of numbers this winter. I had seven male cardinals at the same time along with several females. I wasn't able to top Andrea's nine from last year.

Lynne from Billerica, who works in Wilmington, wrote me that in February, a flock of about 30 turkeys blocked a road in Tewksbury while she was on the way to work, probably off or near Whipple Rd, where I had another report of a large flock of turkeys from Kathy.

Dennis reported a sighting of several red-tailed and coopers hawks. I have had several sightings of hawks at my house, with evidence of only one successful strike. Many red-tailed hawks have been seen over the past several months.

As of today, March 20, no spring peepers in my area, thought those two mild days last week would have brought them out.

I received some photos recently from Cilla, a Wilmington resident, who was ice fishing in Maine with Brian and other friends - someone caught a Pike, cut out filets, threw the remains onto the ice, and within a few minutes a bald eagle swooped down and started feeding. If you would like to see those pictures, e-mail me and I will forward. Also from Cilla, some great pictures of a nesting allens hummingbird, and then when the mother left nest, pictures of eggs the size of a tic tac. I will be happy to forward those also.

If you're out and about early in the morning, around sun-up, stop and listen to the sounds. And, remember to look up often, you will be surprised at what you may see.

Any sightings or questions, e-mail me at daisdaph@verizon.net. You can also call my cell at 508-320-3092. I will return all calls or e-mails as soon as possible.

Letters to the editor

In response to Mr. Carey's letter...

Dear Editor,
I appreciate the opportunity to respond and correct some of the inaccuracies from the letter submitted by Mr. Warren R. Carey on March 23, 2011. I would start by saying that I do not know, nor have I ever met, Mr. Carey or his wife Ms. Elizabeth Carey. That being said, I do acknowledge that both he and his wife have done some tremendous good for the Town of Tewksbury for many years. I am also told that Ms. Carey ran the Town Clerk's office with integrity and professionalism.

Mr. Carey references the letter that I sent to the Town

Manger. This letter was meant to establish pre-election guidelines and not to be used as campaign rhetoric. This is an unusual situation where the assistant Town Clerk and the Town Clerk are running for the same position and I wanted to avoid any perception of impropriety, which can be as harming as any actual improprieties themselves. That letter was sent to the Town Manger, but not to the press or to any other individual, solely to request clarity throughout the entire election process for both candidates.

It doesn't appear as though Mr. Carey has seen the letter in its entirety. In the letter (which can be viewed at www.committeetoelectdenisegraffeo.com for those who wish to read its content), I never mention any person by name but only refer to Massachusetts general law and guidelines set by the State Election Commission. The letter was, in no way, meant to impugn the 27 years that Ms. Carey ran the Town Clerk's office. I do commend the current Town Clerk for removing all family members in question from working this election, even though the Tewksbury by-laws could not compel her to do so. It is my opinion that this correction will remove any potential conflicts or improprieties, whether real or perceived, from the election this year.

Denise Graffeo, her campaign, and her supporters have focused on Denise's qualifications and experience throughout this election. We have not used any other candidate's name in literature, nor have we spoken to the press about any other candidate in a negative way. It was only after reading the letter to the editor that I felt compelled to respond to Mr. Carey's implication that we were running anything less than a positive campaign. It is clear to me that Mr. Carey is a passionate gentleman whose devotion to his wife and loyalty to an old friend may have clouded his perception in this situation. Through all this I do appreciate his honesty where he makes reference to Denise Graffeo's qualifications by stating "I include her in the list of election workers that I trust completely to work in our voting system."

It is evident to me that Mr. Carey wants what is best for the Town of Tewksbury as do I, and look forward to meeting Mr. Carey and working with him towards this common goal. Thank you for this opportunity to respond.

Respectfully,
Daniel J. Fleming

Comedy Fundraiser

WILMINGTON - Anthony Guglielmo graduated from Wilmington High School in 1985 and went onto U-Mass Amherst for his undergraduate degree. Today he lives in southern New Hampshire with his wife and children. He recently discovered that he has brain cancer.

Anyone who knows Anthony, knows that he is going to give this battle everything he has and will be triumphant. But everyone needs a helping hand once in a while.

His friends have organized a comedy fundraising event to help defray medical expenses for Saturday, April 8, at the Wilmington Knights of Columbus Hall.

The evening will feature nationally touring comedians Steve Bjork, Tom Dustin, Mike Prior, and Dan Smith.

Steve Bjork, a Wilmington native and friend of Anthony's, has come a long way from the nights of frying up mozzarella sticks in the back room of an obscure comedy club in the Boston suburbs. He was a college student, using that part-time job to study the craft of stand-up comedy by catching glimpses of the performers on stage.

Today, Bjork is a polished veteran of the highly competitive Boston comedy scene with crisscrossing tours of the country under his belt. His material is intelligent; sometimes absurd, always accessible, but first and foremost it is funny. Bjork takes everyday life and turns it upside down in a way that every demographic in any given audience can enjoy.

From the supermarket, to recess, to family life, and even to cannibalism, Bjork crafts hysterical anecdotes and observations from everyday life. Want to know how to liven up an elevator ride or make the most out of your time on line at the bank? Catch his show and become enlightened.

In addition to hundreds of top echelon industry-respected comedians, Bjork has performed with such luminaries as Dane Cook, Steven Wright, Dom Irrera, Dave Chappelle, Joe Rogan, and Tommy Chong. He has also opened for the legendary musical group The Platters.

Bjork was recently featured in an Olympia Sports commercial. He has performed at all of the major Boston and New England comedy clubs along with The Improv in Las Vegas, NV; Mohegan Sun in CT, Hilarities in Orlando, FL and Cleveland, OH; TSM Comedy Club in Louisville, KY; Crackers in Indianapolis, IN, Penguins in Cedar Rapids, IA, and many, many others.

Tom Dustin may very well be the fastest rising star on the comedy circuit. Born the son of a drunken used-car salesman and a blind saint; stand-up comedy was inevitable. In his first year in the business, he won the Sam Adams Comedy Contest, beating out 50 other comics. Recently, he became the first United States citizen to win the prestigious "Great Canadian Laugh Off" competition, beating out hundreds of other comics to take home the $25,000 grand prize.

Onstage, Tom's unmatched likeability allows him to push comedy to its limit - and that's exactly what he does. The audience is never disappointed.

Mike Prior was a featured performer on a Comedy Central special in 2004, and has played supporting roles in commercials for the New England Aquarium and Boston Center for the Arts. His ability to work clean has made him a fan favorite at hundreds of corporate and college venues.

Prior has an amazing ability to turn life's most frustrating moments into hilarious stories in which everyone can relate. The victim of a recent mugging, Mike now describes himself as a 'professional victim.' He believes that if there was ever a school for professional criminals, he would be the first homework assignment.

Dan Smith entered, and won, The Funniest Comic in Boston contest sponsored by HBO in 1995. Soon after, he picked up and moved to Los Angeles. Since then he's been a busy comedian. He's completed twenty-one (and still counting) military comedy tours overseas, performing for US and NATO troops in over 30 countries around the world including Bosnia, Kosovo, Iceland, Korea, Japan, Cuba, Afghanistan, Kuwait and Iraq.

Several independent film projects, as well as multiple television appearances are to his credit as well. These include 'Drew Carey,' 'Talk Soup,' 'Comics Unleashed,' and more. He's written and produced on several shows such as "Blind Date," "The 5th Wheel" and "Ex-Treme Dating."

The doors open at 8:00 p.m. and the show begins at 9:00 p.m. Tickets are priced at $20 and may be purchased by contacting Steve Bjork at steve@stephenbjork.com or by calling 978-604-1018.

Your Two Cents...

Editor's Note: A submission appearing in Your Two Cents of the March 16 edition posed several questions regarding the High School Building Committee and the process that will determine the future of Wilmington's high school. The answers to all of those questions were addressed during the March 14 Board of Selectmen meeting, and are readily available on both the Town's and the School Department's websites (www.wilmington.k12.ma.us).

I'd like to respond to the "Two Cents" comment last week regarding the private citizen taking an injured dog to the Dracut Vets office. I absolutely agree with the writer that an injured animal is unpredictable and should be handled by a trained individual, but I fail to see the significance in mentioning the fact that the dog was a Pit Bull. Does that mean he/she doesn't deserve the same kind of help as another say smaller dog or cat? We should help any animal that is injured and I would be no more afraid of helping the Pit Bull than if the animal was a 10lb yippy lap dog. Remember you said any animal is unpredictable. Get your facts straight before making a ridiculous comment.

Wilmington

Thumbs up to the Wilmington First Responders (Police, Fire, EMT's)! There was a car accident on Federal Street last week and the response time was phenomenal! (2-3 minutes). I've lived here for 13 years and love this town. Not only do we have great First Responders, but we have the best plowed streets in the state! Well done all around!

Wilmington

I was Judy O'Connell's campaign rally last Saturday night. It was nice to see State Rep. Jim Miceli speak so highly on Judy's behalf.

Wilmington

It's quite a year for elections. Many are hoping for a new school, and the next Board of Selectmen might choose the new Town Manager.

A keen ear to the rhetoric re: new school. The best thing for a quality education depends on the quality of the person heading the classroom supported by the quality of parenting at the student's home. When one is weak, it means hard work for the other. Bells and whistles aren't the answer. A larger auditorium, why?

Wilmington

(editor's note: The current auditorium in the high school is considered too small by the standards set by the Massachusetts School Building Authority.)

There are several convenient and spacious parking lots for Middle School teachers and staff. Why do some insist on parking on the grass in the side parking lot when it is full? It is wearing out the lawn and leaving muddy tire tracks. Let's do our best to keep WMS grounds looking nice.

Wilmington

What a disgraceful display at the selectmen meeting on Monday. Those meetings should not be for campaigning!

Wilmington

Caira's contract is not going to make you lose, your mouth is. Time for a new school and a new selectwoman.

Wilmington

Was that a BOS meeting on Monday, or a Mike McCoy campaign rally?

Wilmington

Hey Selectman McCoy, what else do you want to tell the people about what was said in executive session?

Wilmington

Mr. McCoy, don't use the word 'civil' anymore. You just ruined that word with the foul language you used on television Monday night.

Wilmington

Mike McCoy: I was going to support you, but your showed your true colors of being scared.

Congratulations also to all the students, teachers and staff members of Tewksbury Memorial High School who have been there to support these students throughout their time at TMHS. This is a tremendous accomplishment for these students who will be competing with the very best at the International Conference.

As you can imagine, it is an honor to be competing at this level, but attached to it is also a financial commitment. TMHS DECA is currently seeking donations to help defray the cost to each student to be able to attend this conference. The cost to each student is approximately $1,000, and that is after having already paid $450 to attend the District and State Conference. If you would like to send a donation to support these students please email the DECA Advisor Mr. Jim Sullivan at jsullivan@tewksbury.k12.ma.us, or you can send a check to Tewksbury Memorial High School, C/O Jim Sullivan DEAC Advisor, 320 Pleasant Street, Tewksbury, MA 01876.

School Committee members, Superintendent, and Student Representative attend state-wide advocacy event at State House

TEWKSBURY - On March 29, 2011 several members of the Tewksbury School Committee visited the State House and participated in a day-long school leader lobbying effort.

School Committee members Dennis Francis, Jayne Miller, and Krissy Polimeno attended the event along with Superintendent Dr. John O'Connor and Student Representative to the School Committee, Maria Rinaldi. School Committee member Joe Russell joined the group for the midday lunch and lobbying event.

The 26th annual Day on the Hill sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of School Committees (MASC) focused on the current state of the economy, its impact on public elementary and secondary education in districts across the commonwealth and the FY12 budget negotiations that are now being debated on Beacon Hill. Participants also had the opportunity to reinforce school committees' legislative priorities including: adequate and equitable Chapter 70 funding, local and regional transportation funding, charter school finance reform, full funding of the special education circuit breaker, and RTTT fund distribution directly to school districts.

Keynote speakers at the event included both legislators and education officers: House Majority Leader Ronald Mariano; Senate Ways & Means Chair Stephen Brewer; Senator Katherine Clark, Chair, Committee on Public Service; Senator Sonia Chang-Diaz, Co-Chair, Committee on Education; Representative Alice Peisch, Co-Chair, Committee on Education; and Karla Brooks-Baehr, Associate Commissioner - Accountability, Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. Participants also received an update on current legislative issues from MASC General Counsel Stephen Finnegan, Esq., MASC President Dorothy Presser (Lynnfield) who is also President of the Suburban Coalition, and MASC President-Elect Penny Blackwell (Upper Cape Cod Regional Vocational Technical).

Following the morning program, School Committee members Francis, Miller, Polimeno and Russell, Superintendent O'Connor and student representative Rinaldi met with Representative Jim Miceli, Representative Paul Adams, and Senator Barry Finegold's Chief of Staff to discuss health insurance plan design, unfunded mandates, and restoration of adequate Chapter 70 funding and the special education circuit breaker.

If you have any questions about the Day on the Hill event, please call the school department at 978-640-7800 or visit the School Committee website for contact information at: <http://www.tewksbury.mec.edu/SchoolCommitteeTPS/ind ex.html>.

OBITUARIES

Jeanne B. (Spencer) Phillips Member of the VFW Women's Auxillary

Jeanne B. (Spencer) Phillips, age 69, of Wilmington, died peacefully, surrounded by her family on Saturday, March 26, 2011, at the Winchester Hospital. Jeanne was born in Woburn, MA, on October 10, 1941, and was the dear daughter of the late Robert and Celeste (Dickie) Spencer.

Jeanne grew up in the Pinehurst Section of Billerica and moved to Woburn as a young girl. She was educated in Woburn and graduated from Woburn High School.

Jeanne married her "Navy Man" Zora A. Phillips on December 4, 1960. Zora and Jeanne traveled all over the United States during his enlistment. When Zora retired from the Navy after 20 years, the family settled in Wilmington in 1971. Jeanne and Zora had a wonderful life together, although they shared only 17 years of marriage before his untimely passing in 1978. They raised five children and created many great memories.

Jeanne was very proud of her husband's service to the country. She too took pride in her civic duty and was an active member of the V. F. W.'s Women's Auxillary for many years.

Jeanne was a wonderful woman who was very devoted to her family, and made them her priority. She had an unconditional love for her children, grandchildren, and extended family. She not only raised her children, but she was an "awesome" grandmother and was considered a "second mother" to many of them. Jeanne loved to go camping in Maine with her family and friends. Together they made many memories to share for generations to come.

In her spare time, Jeanne's hobbies included reading, shopping, and attending her weekly "Stitch & Bitch" Group with her sisters and her aunt. There the ladies would make baby sets, blankets, and vent to each other. They were actually very talented and enjoyed each other's company.

OBITUARY

Willard "Ralph" Hunt

Avid fisherman and he made the most of every day

Willard "Ralph" Hunt, age 68, of Billerica, formerly of Wilmington, died peacefully on Friday, March 25, 2011, at the Veteran's Hospital in West Roxbury, following a courageous battle with cancer.

Ralph was born in Winchester, MA, on December 30, 1942. He was the son of the late Radall "Harry" and Myrtle (Abbott) Hunt.

He grew up in Wilmington and was educated there. Ralph enlisted in the United States Army on November 28, 1960 and served the country proudly during the Vietnam War. He was honorably discharged in November of 1963.

Ralph was a past member of the V. F. W. in Wilmington and was a proud American.

Ralph returned to his family in Wilmington and he married the love of his life, Lucy Gray, in 1968. Ralph and Lucy moved to Billerica in the mid 1970's and raised two wonderful children. Family was very important to Ralph; he loved his family dearly and would do anything for them.

Ralph worked in construction, working for a few companies until he took a job with Murray Brothers many years ago. Ralph loved working for the Murray Brothers and had a great time with the "guys" he worked with; they became his extended family. When Ralph's illness forced him to stay out of work, he missed hanging out with the "guys."

Ralph was an avid fisherman. He loved the sport and when he wasn't fishing or cleaning his fishing gear, he would watch various fishing shows on television. Fishing was a passion that Ralph shared with his family and friends.

Ralph also liked to "relax" on the sofa, watching the Patriots, Red Sox, Celtics, Golf, or just reading his paper; he liked to know what was going on in the world.

Ralph loved life and made the best of every day. He enjoyed the company of his family and his many friends.

He will be remembered as a wonderful husband, father, and a devoted "Papa" to Andrew and Jason - they were the center of his world. He would do anything for anyone and was a true friend to many. He will be greatly missed.

Ralph was the beloved husband of Lucy (Gray) Hunt, devoted father of Denise M. Sullivan & her husband Kevin of Pembroke, NH and the late David M. Hunt, loving "Papa" of Andrew & Jason Sullivan, dear brother of Randall Hunt of Leominster, Snooky Hunt of Vermont, Raymond Hunt of So. Carolina, Rusty Hunt of New Hampshire, and the late Vivian Bleye. He is also survived by many brothers and sisters-in-law, nieces, nephews, and great friends.

Family & friends will gather for a Funeral Service on Thursday, March 31, at 11:30 a.m. in the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington. Interment with Military Honors will take place in the family lot at Wildwood Cemetery in Wilmington. Visiting hours Wednesday, March 30, from 4-8 p.m. Memorial donations in Ralph's name may be to Local Heroes Inc., P. O. Box 536, Wilmington, MA 01887.

Wilmington Senior Topics

The following are some fun programs that will be held at the Buzzell Senior Center provided by the Wilmington Department of Elderly Services.

On Wednesday, April 6, 2011 the Department of Elderly Services will be celebrating the 25th Anniversary of the opening of the Wilmington Buzzell Senior Center. We will be having an Open House from 9:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. This is a great opportunity to see what the department offers in services and in programs. Everyone will be able to enjoy viewing and/or participating in the many different programs, such as exercise classes, ceramics, line dancing, and quilting. We will be offering light refreshments and giveaways throughout the day, so come and enjoy the fun.

The Wilmington Department of Elderly Services is planning a breakfast on Saturday, April 30, 2011 from 8:00 a.m. - 10:00 a.m., before the Annual Town Meeting, at the Buzzell Senior Center to support the Wilmington High School Scholarship Fund. We will be serving sausage, eggs, french toast, corn bread and home fries. The cost is $6.00 per person. Tickets are to be bought in advance and are available at the center. Any questions please call 978-657-7595. Space is limited.

On Thursday, May 5, 2011 the Department of Elderly Service will be hosting its third "Wilmington Trivia Night." This event will be held at the Buzzell Senior Center and is sponsored by the Wilmington High School students from the Rotary Interactive Group. We will be having Hamburgers, Hot Dogs, Popcorn and lots of fun!! If you are interested, please contact the Wilmington Department of Elderly Services.

A team of 8th grade students from Wilmington recently met with different town officials to discuss community needs for their Destination Imagination community outreach project. The team met with Mr. Cairra, Town Manager, Mrs. Marciello, Director of Elderly Services, Lt. Sencabaugh from the Police Department and Lt. Hurley from the Fire Department.

The team decided to make emergency safety kits for the elderly because they wanted to help the elderly in need in Wilmington. The team researched what a typical emergency safety kit contains and launched their outreach project, "Kits for a Cause." Next, the team started spreading the word about "Kits for a Cause" by creating a page on Facebook and creating a "Kits for a Cause" website, www.kits4acause.com.

Since the team needed to raise money and supplies to make the emergency safety kits, they worked on a variety of fundraiser initiatives, including putting fundraising jars at local businesses, canning at Dunkin Donuts, fundraising at the Wilmington Middle School, they also held a fundraising night at Chili's, and received donations from other supporters. The team also partnered with the Women of Wilmington, who donated multiple bags of emergency supply items. The team recently brought twenty emergency safety kits to the Buzzell Senior Center for distribution and is working on continuing their efforts to supply more kits soon.

It's been exciting to have several experienced nursing students from UMass Lowell in collaboration with the Wilmington Board of Health - Alan Costa, RN; Prema Daniel, RN; Matt MacDonald, RN; Grace Ndegwa, RN; Melanie Teabo, RN - that have come to the Buzzell Senior Center. This group of students has been available to take your blood pressure, and on Thursday, April 7, 2011 at 10:00 a.m., there will be a Blood Pressure Screening and a Heart Disease presentation and a discussion on Heart Disease. Refreshments will be served.

Please feel free to take advantage of this great program. If you should have any questions, please feel free to call at 978-657-7595.

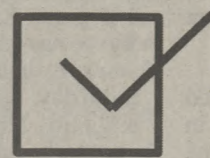

We have started to play cribbage for all the 'cribbage lovers.' So plan to come down and enjoy the fun on Thursday's at 2:30 p.m. Feel free to bring your own boards.

There has been discussion about starting a bridge group. Anyone interested please feel free to drop by on Tuesday, April 12, at 1:30 p.m. and start a game.

"Strengthening the Community, One Step at a Time" with the First Annual 5K Run for Wilmington/Kim Forte Walk

WILMINGTON - The Women of Wilmington (WOW) invite you to join in "Strengthening the Community, One Step at a Time" at the First Annual 5K Run for Wilmington/Kim Forte Walk. The race is open to runners and walkers of all ages and athletic abilities. You can register as an individual, or join one of the many teams that are giving back to their local organizations through donations and fund raising. Proceeds will be used by WOW to help local individuals, families and groups in need.

This year's event will be dedicated to the memory of Kim Forte. In February of this year, Kim, a well-known Wilmington resident, was struck and killed by a car while walking home from the gym. Kim was a mainstay on the streets of Wilmington. On any given day, one could see her walking and biking around town - no matter the weather - with a huge, infectious smile. On race day WOW will remember and celebrate Kim's life by walking the neighborhoods she so loved in her honor.

The First Annual 5K Run for Wilmington/Kim Forte Walk is a professionally timed event and will be held Sunday, May 15, 2011 at 10:00 a.m. sharp. Racers and walkers will meet on the Town Common, located across from Wilmington High School. Pre-registration by May 10, 2011 is $15 for children (under 16) and $25 for adults (ages 16 and up). Non-registered children of all ages are welcome to walk accompanied by a registered adult. Registration after May 10 is $30, cash-only at the event. The first 250 registrants are guaranteed a free race t-shirt.

The 5K course is fast and flat. Come experience the small town charm of Wilmington, and see what makes it one of "The Best Affordable Suburbs" as recognized by BusinessWeek. Registration and parking will be marked, and there will be plenty of volunteers on hand. Get involved.

Additional information about the race and online registration can be found at www.runreg.com or www.womenofwilmington.org. Businesses are invited to contribute through sponsorships or donations and Wilmington non-profits are invited to organize and register their teams to begin raising funds. All necessary forms can be obtained at www.womenofwilmington.org or by contacting Michelle Bryan, race committee chair, at mbryant-pc@yahoo.com. Checks may be made payable to "Women of Wilmington" and mailed to: Women of Wilmington Attn: Michelle Bryan P.O. Box 455 Wilmington, MA 01887 About Women of Wilmington

The Women of Wilmington is organized exclusively for charitable purposes within the meaning of Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (as enacted and may hereafter be revised). The corporation shall receive and disburse funds, property and gifts of any kind exclusively for the benefit of families and residents of Wilmington, as well as those persons and organizations that support families and residents of Wilmington. Third Annual Easter Fund-Raiser for Breast Cancer

WILMINGTON - On Saturday April 16th from 1-3pm at the Wilmington United Methodist Church (87 Church St, Wilmington) Deanna Wright will be hosting her third annual Easter Fund-raiser. All donations go to the Susan G. Komen for the Cure 2011 Boston Breast Cancer 3-Day. The cost is $15 per participating child. Activities include Easter basket crafts, an Easter Egg hunt, lots of raffle items, a visit from the Easter Bunny, and - new this year - a Lucky Karat consultant! Lucky Karat will give you cash on the spot for any unwanted and even broken gold, platinum, or sterling silver jewelry. No kids, no problem....just stop by to get a no obligation quote for your jewelry and win some great raffles! Walk-ins are welcome.

This July, Deanna will be taking part in her fifth Breast Cancer 3-Day walk. This is a three-day, 60-mile walk for men and women who want to make a personal difference in the fight to end breast cancer. Net proceeds benefit Susan G. Komen for the Cure, which funds innovative global breast cancer research and local community programs supporting education, screening and treatment. Last year, Komen announced that they would be distributing $59 million in 2010 research grants to 65 institutions. Thanks to events like the 3-Day, the organization has invested more than $1.5 billion, becoming the world's largest source of nonprofit funds dedicated to the fight against Breast Cancer.

"My amazing team, The

The Easter Bunny (in back) happily meeting children during last year's Annual Easter Fund-raiser. He'll be back again this year to help Deanna Wright raise money for the Susan G. Komen For a Cure.

Pink Angels, have alone raised over one million dollars!" said Deanna. "Every step brings us closer to a cure!"

Chances are that you or someone you know has been affected by breast cancer; it is a fact that 1 in 8 women will get breast cancer...but there are efforts to change that because Everyone Deserves a Lifetime! If you are interested in learning more about the Breast Cancer 3-Day, there will be an informational Get Started meeting on Tuesday April 12, at the Wilmington Memorial Library at 6:30 p.m.

For more information about the fund-raiser, or to RSVP,

APRIL 2ND

Consider Ed Sullivan for Selectman

PERSONAL HISTORY

I've had family roots in Tewksbury since my grandparents came to live here in the 1920s. Born in 1961, I was raised in Tewksbury and have resided here all my life. As young student, I went to St. Stanislaus School, Tewksbury Jr. High, attended high school at Middlesex School, Concord Massachusetts Class of 1979, Syracuse University class of 1983 majoring in Business Management.

FAMILY

My wonderful wife, Joan MacArthur Sullivan, and I have been married for 19 years. Joan is also a Tewksbury native and together we are raising our two children Connor, who attends Lowell Catholic High School, and Sarah, who is a student at the Ryan School in Tewksbury.

DISTINGUISHED AWARDS

- Listed in America's Outstanding Names and Faces
- Awarded National Gold Star for Community Service, St. Louis, Missouri
- All American Wrestler

OCCUPATION

I built my first house when I was just 14 years old. During the course of my career as a Developer, I have built over 300 homes from Maine to Manhattan. Recently, I have restored numerous homes, some as old as 250 years to their original condition.

VOLUNTEER WORK

- Current Vice President of Tewksbury Youth Baseball
- One of three members who are starting a well-received Challenger League for children ages 5-18 with special needs
- Was instrumental in the construction of a new $40,000 field on Livingston Street at no cost to the taxpayers
- Rebuilt numerous backstops on town fields including three school fields making it safe for all children
- Current Administrator of the Tewksbury Boys Basketball League. With the help of a very enthusiastic board, TBBL has grown in size and is now operating in the black with the hope of someday opening up a facility of our own which will serve the entire town of Tewksbury.
- Coached 15 teams including basketball, baseball, softball, and football

WHAT OUR TOWN NEEDS

The town of Tewksbury needs a leader who doesn't have a personal agenda and is willing to spend countless hours to bring back Tewksbury to a thriving community. The town needs better communication between Boards, department heads, committees and most importantly, the townspeople. For example: it is not fair to residents to go to their mailboxes and find water/sewer bills four times what was expected—then hear the town manager state we knew this was coming four years ago. Though this was not the fault of the town manager; it was a problem he inherited when he took the position last year. Residents also didn't need to hear the Chairman of the School Committee state, when he presented his budget which was 2.5 million in the red, "we knew this was coming three years ago." If we are going to be a community, we have to act on these shortfalls before it is too late.

Regarding the 2 1/2 override/debt exemption: unlike my opponents, I am against setting this precedent to correct the mistake that we all made as voters. Eventually, if this passes, the burden of this cost will be on the shoulders of our children until 2041. This will only lead to more spending and borrowing. The town has spent its entire savings and it is time for all the Boards to pull together without putting further burden on our citizens. Any increase in taxes will hinder any progress to correct the 35% vacancy rate on our commercial space as well as financially preventing most new businesses from considering Tewksbury as a town which is receptive to economic growth. It is time to rip up the credit card and stop the spending. This can be done without layoffs but we need to work together with better communication.

Let's think about the major projects we have undertaken the past 15 years. The sewer extensions; there is no need to dwell on the fact we spent well over our means resulting in the higher than expected water and sewer bills. The police station is now operating with its lowest personnel in ten years with no regard to safety; the library is about to lose its accreditation because we do not have the funds to operate at the state's minimum requirement; the South Street fire station is closed indefinitely because of lack of funds; the senior center is closed one day a week which has never happened in the past. These are all beautiful facilities and we need to find a way to properly fund them so we can achieve the maximum benefits and services.

It is important for voters to elect the proper personnel to serve in such a capacity to benefit the town as a whole. My mother, Sue Sullivan, served with complete dedication on the Board of Health and the Council on Aging. My father, Robert Sullivan, resided on the Planning Board for 25 years until his passing. It has been instilled in me from a very early age that it is everyone's responsibility to give back to the community. I believe it is my time to fulfill this obligation.

I cannot promise I can fix these problems in my three-year term but I will turn things around so that we can get back on track.

I have offered to donate my selectman's salary back to the town in order to start the process of getting this town pointed in the right direction.

Young women attend W.I.S.E.

WILMINGTON - Over 400 eighth grade girls from nearly 30 Massachusetts schools gathered at Salem State University on March 15th for the Women in Science and Engineering (W.I.S.E.) program. The all day conference was designed to expose young women to the wide variety of interesting and challenging careers in mathematics and science. Wilmington Middle School was represented by twelve students. Wilmington's Science Department Chair, Jim Megyesy, organized this year's trip to W.I.S.E. with the help of grade 8 science teacher, Jennifer Judkins. The students attended three different workshops led by women working in math or science focused fields. Many of the workshops included some hands-on activities to engage the students.

Students shared some of their experiences following the conference.

Anna Ardizzoni participated in a veterinary oncology workshop, run by Kim Cronin of Northeast Veterinary Oncology, where she tested dogs' blood for Lyme disease and cancer.

Caitlin Baranow, who enjoys writing and science, hadn't thought about combining her interests before she met Dianne Finch, and heard about her exciting work and travels as a science journalist.

In the workshop she attended on Clinical Research, Amanda DeLucia worked to name a new drug based on its chemical structure as she learned about the complex process of testing new drugs from Jennifer Vermette of Pfizer.

With over 20 workshops offered, there were many additional careers the girls were introduced to including green chemistry, food science and nursing, to name a few. Wilmington Public Schools is a member of the Collaborative Project for Math, Science and Interdisciplinary Education (CPMSIE), which has organized Project W.I.S.E. since its inception in 1990. The goal of the W.I.S.E. program is to increase girls' awareness of career fields and provide hands-on workshops with positive role models of successful women in these fields. Based on their experiences this year, the Wilmington students agree that W.I.S.E. opened their eyes to the many possibilities for their future.

Twelve young ladies from Wilmington Middle School attended the WISE Program recently. Tech piles up medals at Skills USA district competition

BILLERICA - When it comes to the prestigious Skills USA competitions that are held at high schools throughout the country each spring, there's generally a feeling around Shawsheen Valley Technical High School in Billerica - March happiness.

On March 16, 152 students from Shawsheen Tech participated in the district competition and more than 30 percent of those students came home with medals.

Eighteen gold and 20 silver medals came back to Billerica. Generally, all first and second-place performances earn trips to the state finals.

Senior Michael Flores of Wilmington, who was a national gold medalist last year, brought home more hardware after finishing first in Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration.

Senior Steven Simas of Tewksbury, who also reached the national finals last year in Kansas, similarly took a step toward returning with a first-place finish in Technical Drafting.

Shawsheen Tech also swept the Medical Assistant and Marine Service Technology categories.

In Medical Assisting, junior Christine O'Brien of Burlington won gold, senior Vanessa Riley of Tewksbury earned silver and senior Julia Madden of Tewksbury captured bronze. According to Heidi Lloyd, a graphic arts instructor at Shawsheen Tech and the school's Skills USA advisor, all three girls will advance to the state conference on April 28 in Marlborough.

The sweep of the Marine Service Technology competition was led by senior gold-medalist Anthony Armstrong of Burlington, second-place performer junior Joseph Anderson of Wilmington and Cody Hersee, a senior from Burlington, who was third. All three medalists will also advance to the state finals.

"Shawsheen will take approximately 66 students to the state conference," said Lloyd. "Gold-medal winners from this conference move on to the national conference held in Kansas City at the end of June."

Shawsheen Tech students worked together to once again take gold in the Team Works competition, one of the most entertaining contests of the event that combines several different vocations. Shawsheen's winning foursome was comprised of senior Rich Curtain of Billerica in plumbing, senior Dylan Leone of Tewksbury in electrical, junior Chris Clayton of Billerica in masonry and sophomore Matt McGrath of Wilmington in carpentry.

Two other seniors brought home gold. Steven Robichaud of Billerica was a winner in Industrial Motor Control and Alexis Fielding of Wilmington took the top spot in CNC Turning Technology.

Other junior gold medalists include Dayna Jean of Tewksbury in Automotive Refinishing Technology, Amanda Vocell of Tewksbury in Basic Health Care Skills, Tommi Hurley of Burlington in Commercial Baking, Francesco Catizone of Tewksbury in Electronics Technology, Dave Scroton of Billerica in Food and Beverage Service, Hannah Stebbins of Wilmington in Precision Machining

Technology and Nicole Morrell of Tewksbury in Medical Terminology.

One sophomore, Melissa DuBuque of Billerica, brought home gold in First Aid and CPR.

Additional seniors taking home silver from Shawsheen Tech were Jessica Houghton of Billerica in Architectural Drafting, Sydnie Lopolito of Tewksbury in Cosmetology, Steven Donovan of Billerica in Electronics Technology, Courtney Woods of Billerica in Office Computer Applications, Kristifer Galdi of Billerica in Plumbing, Ben Hurley of Wilmington in Residential Wiring and Stephen Assetta of Burlington in Web Design.

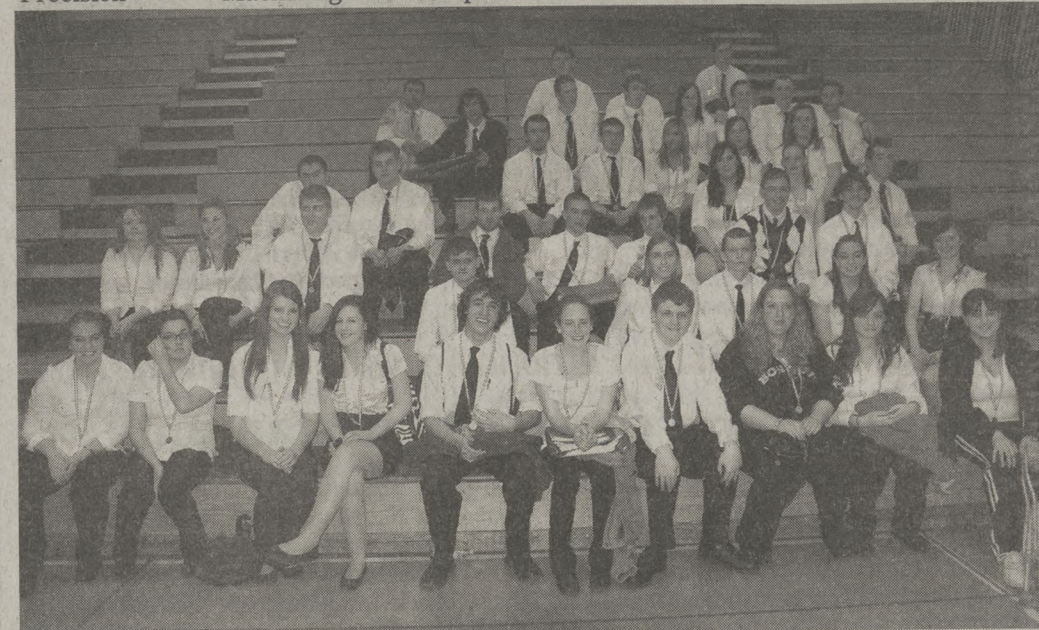

Nine other juniors earned silver, a group consisting of Jessica Kenney of Tewksbury in Web Design, Tyler MacDonald of Wilmington in Power Equipment Technology, Edward Loud of Wilmington in Diesel Equipment Technology, Danielle James of Billerica in Customer Service, Keenan Goodwin of Tewksbury in Culinary Arts, Jessica Silva of Wilmington in Cosmetology and a group of three in Automated Manufacturing Technology, Ryan Frautten of Tewksbury, Mario Merino of Billerica and Mikayla Radcliff of Billerica. Two sophomores earned silver including Michael Palmisano of Tewksbury in Sheet Metal and Rachel Hobbs of Billerica in First Aid and CPR.

Rounding out the Shawsheen Tech award winners with bronze medals were senior Andrea Borges of Tewksbury and junior Kelly Bowers of Tewksbury in CNC Milling Technology, junior Tyler Muraca of Billerica in Electronics Technology, senior Robert Neal of Billerica in HVAC, senior Matthew Murphy of Billerica in Sheet Metal and senior Jesse Dillon of Tewksbury in Plumbing.

Lloyd said the state competition is an exciting opportunity for Shawsheen Tech students to enjoy.

"After the contests are completed all students are treated to a variety of activities ranging from a dance to different gaming systems," she said. "It's a nice opportunity for students to meet with students from all over the state that are enrolled in technical programs like theirs. On Saturday all students dress for the awards ceremony and closing ceremony. This is quite a sight to see, there will be over 2000 students competing."

Shawsheen Tech students, once again, brought home a ton of medals from the recent Skills USA competition

Tewksbury Library Notes

Celebrate art on Wednesday nights

On Wednesday, April 6 and April 13 at 6:30 p.m., join Diane Giarrusso - library director & paper crafter extraordinaire - to learn how to make functional, thoughtful bookmark cards (April 6) and incredibly useful corner bookmarks (April 13). All supplies (including paper, inks and stamps) as well as detailed instructional handouts, will be provided. Everything is pre-cut. All you need to bring is your sense of creativity and fun! Registration required.

On Wednesday, April 20 at 5:30 p.m., join Gregory Maichack - award-winning artist - for a pastel painting workshop! Become inspired to create beautiful pastel paintings by exploring Georgia O'Keeffe, America's foremost modernist pastel painter of flowers. Focusing on the calla lily, participants will work in tandem with the artist. O'Keeffe's landscapes and shells will be covered. From sheer beginners with no experience to advanced students, all will experiment with hundreds of pastels, learning the pastel handling techniques that O'Keeffe used in her pastel art. Scumbling, feathering, blending, slurring, edges, and layering will be mastered in this direct tactile medium of pure and nuanced color. All supplies - including professional grade pastels, pastel pencils, Rembrandt pastels, and assorted Canson pastel papers - will be provided. Registration required.

On Wednesday, April 27 at 6:00 p.m., join Jonathan Poore - an architectural designer, illustrator, and author of "Interior Color By Design" - to learn how to transform your interior space with color. The talk and slide show will be geared toward homeowners who are interested in the effect color can have for themselves and their homes. If you have an interest in color, attend this creative and instructional evening. A question and answer period will conclude the event. All attendees will receive a one page, double-sided handout with a Step-by-Step Color Selection Checklist on one side and a Glossary of Color Terms on the other side. Copies of Mr. Poore's latest book will be available for purchase after the event. Registration recommended.

On Tuesday, April 12 at 6:30 p.m., join NOT-ME! - a non-profit organization with a mission to promote, advance, and unify self-defense education and training for at-risk populations - for a class on self-defense, conflict resolution, and boundary setting. Through instruction, role playing, and discussion, attendees will learn about Progressive Boundary Setting, a strategy for limiting unwanted behavior. Progressive Boundary Setting consists of a communicating and enforcing behavioral limits through progressive responses. It is done by individuals through visual, verbal, and physical means. Visual boundary setting is done primarily through the use of body language. Verbal boundary setting is done through assertive use of the voice. Physical boundary setting is done through physical actions. Progressive Boundary Setting applies to interpersonal conflicts ranging from harassment; dating and domestic violence; random violence; instances of self-defense; and to everything in between. Progressive Boundary Setting is not an instinctive reaction - it is a learned behavioral response that must be practiced. Registration required.

On Tuesday, April 26 at 5:45 p.m., the library will be showing The King's Speech. Directed by Tom Hopper, this Oscar-winning film stars Colin Firth and Geoffrey Rush. The film tells the story of King George VI of Britain, his impromptu ascension to the throne and the speech therapist who helped the unsure monarch become worthy of it. NOTE: Seating is limited. Popcorn and lemonade will be provided at no charge. Moviegoers may bring their own snacks. This event is FREE thanks to the generosity of the Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library and the Tewksbury Lions Club. No registration needed.

Meeting Room doors open 15 minutes prior to a program's start. Registration for most programs is either required or strongly recommended as it aids both the library staff and presenter with planning. Registration may be limited. Register by stopping by the Reference Desk, calling 978-640-4490 ext. 207; or visiting the library's online calendar of events (www.tewksburypl.org). Light refreshments will be provided. A door prize will be awarded.

These classes and events are FREE thanks to the generosity of the Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library. The Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library's Friendly Little Bookshop will be open prior to all Wednesday evening programs. Contact librarian Robert Hayes (978-640-4490 ext. 205, rhayes@mvlc.org) with any questions.

Wilmington Educational Foundation Vendor Fair, April 1

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Educational Foundation (WEF) invites you to attend its annual Vendor Fair held at the Knights of Columbus on April 1, 2011 from 7:00 - 11:00 p.m. The Vendor Fair is always a great way to raise money for Wilmington's schools and provide a fun night out. Consisting of vendor tables, silent auction and various raffle items, this year's fair continues to grow. Admission is free, but WEF encourages people to bring at least 10 Box Tops for Education to be included in a door prize raffle. You must be there if you want to bid on one of the most popular auction items: one up-front parking spot and two seats on the field at this year's high school graduation.

The Wilmington Educational Foundation is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization whose purpose is to support the Wilmington Public School System. WEF does this by raising funds from private and corporate sources, and then awarding grants for innovative and creative programs that are not covered in the current year's school district budget.

Thanks for the time of my life

I would like to express my sincerest thanks for the outpouring of support and love we have received from Kim's beloved Town of Wilmington.

To those of you who were fortunate enough to have been blessed, as I was, to have had some time to know Kim.

She was an amazing ball of energy, a firecracker that lit up the sky, a kind, gentle, passionate woman who was always true to her beliefs. She certainly made the streets of Wilmington a friendlier place, always that big warm loving smile. The one I was blessed with for over 30 years. What a journey we had!

I would also like to extend my heartfelt thanks to the Wilmington Police Dept for their respect, loyalty and honor that they provided Kim on the day of her funeral. She thought the world of you guys and I'm sure that wave and smile will be missed

To Margaret, at Nichols Funeral Home, You helped me keep my head up in the darkest time in my life, my most sincere thanks goes to you.

To her Jazzercise Family, make sure each and every one of you is dancing your hearts out. That is what Kim would want you to do. Kim always said "the secret to life is to skip and dance, it will make you smile!"

To Kim's Middlesex Community College students and colleagues, you gave Kim her wings and she was flying high, her dedication and love will always be with you.

My friends Wow!

My family, God, you are all Amazing!

My beloved son, Tim, you provided me with such strength and love, how proud your mother is of you!

I hope that everyone takes a minute, gives a smile, lends a hand, or just a kind word. Keep Kim's legacies going. Kim's yearbook quote was "It's nice to be important, but more important to be nice".

My deepest thanks,
Louis Forte

Town Manager selection

learned in nine years."

Michael McCoy
"First of all, we need a town manager who's going to be a chief fiscal officer. I look to the town manager to take a conservative fiscal approach. Even though the town manager does a good job, he needs direction from the Board of Selectmen. I've always taken a conservative approach to the budget. Mike Cairra has done a good job, no doubt about it, and he's had good tools. The industrial base pays 45 percent of the total tax base and the residents fifty five percent of the base. The town has been a little bit of a cash cow, because of multiple small businesses. We're fortunate to save money for a rainy day, we never know when those rainy days happen. We charge no bus fees, there are no trash fees in the town, no after school sports fees, we haven't given out one pink slip to one town employee and I feel I have something to do with that. We have a responsibility to provide the essential services the residents require of us and I believe that we are doing that at a tax rate that is accepted.
"In general, I would take a look at the history of the candidate and make the best vote I can make for the residents in this community. I want to make sure we hire someone who is honest, who is going to do a good job, and who has good performance from past jobs."

Mark Nelson
"First and foremost, the search should be for a candidate who has previous experience as a Town Manager, if he or she has a doctorate degree in business and management that would certainly be a plus. I believe that it should be a national search and one that should be beginning sooner rather than later. Someone who intends to stay on as a town manager and not just be using the position to pad their resume and move on. I would not oppose the idea of offering the position at a higher pay scale $160,000 to $175,000 by eliminating the assistant town manager's position, with the intent of hiring the absolute best qual-

When we were in executive session a couple of months ago, you stated to me that if I didn't support the town manager's pay raise, which by the way, you led the charge, that I would have a tough time in getting reelected. I looked at you and said nothing, with a smile. However, tonight, I look at you and say, 'now that you are supporting a candidate against me, I am going to make you eat those words on election night when I win.'
McCoy then went on in his comments to state that he proposed a contract for the town manager that is "more in line" with town employees and "most of America," offering a zero increase in year-one and a three percent increase for the next year.
Cairra's contract was voted on in late October and was supported by members Champoux, Raymond Lepore, and Michael Newhouse. Lou Cimaglia abstained from the vote, as he is an employee of the town as Veterans' Agent. McCoy voted against the measure saying that while he supports the town manager, and had voted to reappoint Cairra in June 2009; he did not support the raise of just under $8,000.
However, Cairra was eligible for an early retirement incentive, meaning he could have exercised his option to retire early and received additional income roughly equivalent to the raise. Instead, he is staying at the helm of town governance.
"I'd rather pay someone to come to work rather than pay him to stay home," said Newhouse at the time.
Champoux commented likewise at the time saying, "I feel like the residents of the Town of Wilmington got a big bang for their buck. I am very delighted he did not exercise his option to retire early."
Following McCoy's incendiary remarks, Lepore commented on his vote on the town manager's contract, saying he does not regret voting for the pay raise and that he stands up for the raise.

Then Lepore also talked about his own candidacy.
"Its my prerogative to go out and get one of two seats," Lepore said. "I've always done my best for this community. I don't want to make a body of selectmen fight with each other. We don't have to agree on everything."
Champoux responded to the allegation that he attempted to intimidate McCoy saying, "in spite of any differences I've never had an ill feeling toward you. I'm fond of you as a person and you deserve credit for years of service."
He went on to state that he is not supporting O'Connell specifically against McCoy or against Lepore.
"I do believe she would be an asset to the town," said Champoux, adding, "I'm not making any public comment with what I am doing with my other vote. 'That's between me and the both.'"
McCoy responded, saying he appreciated Champoux's honesty, and then commented again that he, "doesn't get intimidated."

Judy O'Connell
"The majority of the credit for Wilmington's current fiscal stability and excellent bond rating goes to the current management team, which has been in place for more than 20 years. For that reason alone, hiring Wilmington's next Town Manager represents the single most important decision that the Board of Selectmen will make over the span of at least two decades. It is critical and essential that the Board makes the right decision in hiring a new Town Manager.
"Obviously, the number one priority is to make sure that the Board identifies the best person for the job, by establishing an inclusive and transparent search process. Sometimes, the best person for the job comes from within the current administration, but other times, finding the most qualified and suitable candidate requires a more exhaustive search. For this reason, I support the Town Meeting article, which seeks to remove the antiquated residency requirement for the position of Town Manager.
"If elected, I will push to establish a clear, effective and public process to be followed, even prior to inviting qualified candidates to apply. Additionally, I would welcome and proactively request the input of our current Town Manager in this process. Finally, since our Town Charter specifically provides that any vacancy in the office of the Town Manager shall be filled as soon as possible by the Selectmen, I would strongly consider making a temporary appointment pending the Board's deliberative and thorough search for a suitable, effective and uniquely qualified successor."

School Committee reviews Strategic

Respondents were also asked to rate a number of issues on both their level of concern and level of importance. Community members and staff members expressed a high desire for honors and advanced placement classes, while students placed priority on student support services including extra help, counseling, and tutoring.
"Equally important were the number of strengths," said Benton, as the survey results also highlighted areas where the Wilmington Public Schools shine. Such areas included the English/Language/Arts program, the Social Studies program, relevant curriculum and programs, the focus on student health and well-being, and the range, variety and achievement of Wilmington sports and extracurricular activities.

The results of the survey will be used in a number of ways. Benton revealed, "[The results] give us some information on where we are going to go...some of the goals are ongoing from the plan that expired in June to the next five year plan."
The School Committee will also use the results to compile a new documents and improvement plans, which Benton says, "...[are] really a roadmap of where we want the schools to go in the next six years."
The need for improved high school facilities - one of the biggest concerns highlighted in the surveys - was also discussed at length during the school committee meeting. Benton noted that eight site plan options for the possible high school renovations, additions and expansions options can be viewed on the school's website. The School Committee urged the community that now is the time to complete such as a project. Wilmington is guaranteed a 48.47% reimbursement for the project expenses, though actual reimbursement may be closer to 50%.

School Committee Chairman Margaret Kane encouraged Wilmington residents to become involved in the process: "If you have any ideas you'd like to share, or input, this is the time to do it...I can't encourage you enough to come to the meetings."
The next meeting for the High School Building Committee will be April 12, at 6:30 p.m. in Wilmington High School auditorium.

Benton and her team had one final message to those who participated in the survey, and Benton summed up the meeting with a warm thanks and optimistic outlook. "There is so much praise on (having) the same goal of ensuring the best quality of education for the students in Wilmington," Benton said, "and you hear that time and again throughout the surveys. These themes should make you proud because it's a community that truly cares of the students in the Wilmington Public schools and I'm thrilled that it came out in the survey."
The next school committee meeting will be held April 13 at 7:00 p.m.

21st Century education

facilitator, able to walk around the classroom with interactive tablets, engaging with the students rather than sitting up at the chalkboard. Tablet PC technology is leading the way in this arena. This is just one example of all the incredible tools that will hopefully make its way to the Wilmington classroom in the next few years.
In essence, I see the marriage of classroom-based learning styles with virtual reality; textbooks and chalkboards will make way for more advanced computer visual boards - an advancement in the current whiteboard system - in every classroom. Virtual classrooms are already being utilized at the older levels in Wilmington and I continue to see additional expansion in these areas; active virtual learning that allows a student to witness Bastille Day, rather than read about it in a book or climb the Himalayas without leaving your seat.
Remember: no child is the same; one child may learn through reading and lecture, while another learns by doing. We can never, therefore, underestimate the importance of teacher/student interaction. From what I have seen in my three years on the school committee, learning builds on that basic foundation of student/teacher interaction, and the technology provides additional tools to enhance the process; it will provide gifted and talented students more leeway into learning outside the typical classroom yet provide children who require more one-on-one learning what they need, with success being the end result at both levels.
Ginny Bonish:
"I once saw a speaker who said one of our most important jobs as parents is to get our kids ready for a life on their own, and we have eighteen years to do this. I'll never forget that statement and my vision of a 21st century education in Wilmington helps parents do just that. In addition to providing a 21st century facility, which we covered in detail last week, my vision combines the instruction of essential traditional core academic subjects with the integration of 21st century skills such as critical thinking, problem solving, technology, communication, and creativity. A curriculum such as this will provide the tools necessary for children to not only learn these skills but to practice them as well, which in turn will better prepare them for admissions to competitive colleges, as well as for jobs and life in general. Some examples of what I envision in Wilmington are more integrated technology, full wireless access for all schools, more choices and earlier onset of foreign language instruction, continued and early encouragement of volunteerism, more technology training included in teachers' professional development, more guidance department outreach, more communication with parents through email and websites and possibly even software such as Progressbook, which automates parent and student communication, grade books and homework progress. I also see online global classrooms, video conferencing, and more Smart boards and LCD projectors. And one more minor thing: I envision a website to fill in and maintain that little yellow emergency card with the tiny print so that it only has to be filled out once, then updated and printed every year for each child."

Manny Mulas:
"Having children in the Wilmington School system, this is a question that is very relevant, not only as a candidate for school committee, but as a parent. Educational and technological requirements are changing constantly, and we need to be able to keep up with these changes. While we need to stay true to the core principles of education and support continued growth in math and science, we need to expand on technology. My vision for a 21st century education in Wilmington is that we need to implement 21st century classrooms with 21st century learning tools, anytime, anywhere access to technology. I think that the school system does a good job introducing students early on, how to use computers and the Internet, however we need to be able to implement tools that allow teachers and students to have better access to a 21st century education. One of the ideas that I have heard brought up was to supply students with tools like iPads instead of textbooks. I think that this is a really good idea. Ultimately this is an option that can save the school system money on the long run. It also gives teachers the ability to have virtual classrooms, have virtual field trips. Think about never having another snow day again! 21st century education is about technology advances and I want to see the school system continue moving in that direction. That is why I feel so strongly about building a new high school, a new school with 21st century classrooms that will allow us to keep up with the ever-changing technology.

Karl Sagal:
"I see education in the next decade and beyond continuing to evolve, becoming more interactive with many of the computer technologies that are available today, and becoming more commonplace in every day life.
When I was in school, the technology was, among other things, a set of encyclopedias. Now technology can be a Google search. Traditional values and lessons will need to be applied to and enhanced by the technology of today, as well as new and more interactive technologies of the future. All school systems will have to interact with households more than ever before as the Internet and other technologies both consume attention and provide resources to the youth of today and tomorrow. A simple smart phone of today has access to more recorded information than great libraries of the past, but volumes of data will have little value without the classic educational skills of appropriate interpretation. I see that the schools and school professionals of the future will necessarily be a more integrated part of the electronic society at large, than today, and managed properly, will be able to show how to not just find the answer to today's query, but also to find the really good question for tomorrow.

All that being said, there will be no substitute for introduction to the classics of literature and the basics of math and science. More than ever before, youth are exposed to simulations and video representations of life, and the school system of the future will be the Petri dish where reality meets fantasy."

Michael Bodnar:
"We're at the start of the 21st century. Going back one hundred years, to 1910 or 1911, everything was geared toward millwork, craftsmen, the railroads were the big then. We have ninety years of the 21st century left. The only good answer is to adapt to the way things are going. Right now its all technology based. Who knows what it will be in ten years from now?
To bring it back down to the ground floor, the three R's are very important: reading, writing, and arithmetic. I feel the basics are necessary in education. It doesn't matter if we are electronically educated. Writing is very important. Kids today, with text messaging, are weak in writing skills. In the past you provided the basics, but current world events dictate that we have a more advanced student.
Individual teachers know their students better than the head office. Education in the 21st century will be continuously changing. I guarantee another technology will come into effect in the next 15 years. The teachers are the forefront of our education system; they are the start, the ground floor, from preschool through high school. Give teachers more freedom and latitude for how they want to teach their classes and on the curriculum in general."

InWood Park changes endorsed by committee

By GORDON VINCENT
WOBURN - A change from age-restricted condominiums to rental units in the final phase of the InWood Park project was endorsed this week by the City Council's Special Permits Committee.
Pending a likely affirmative vote from the full council at its meeting on Tuesday, April 6, a condo building with 44 units that was supposed to be restricted to residents over age 55 will be 34 apartments, with no age considerations.
The change will allow the developer, AvalonBay, a wider range of potential customers, as the age-restricted component has practically become phased out of the market.
"If there were a market for that product type, we would build it," said Scott Dale, of AvalonBay. "It (over-55) may be a concept that has come and gone, and I don't see it coming back."
Dale also confirmed that AvalonBay will likely sell the InWood project to another developer, which he declined to name since negotiations are ongoing.
The new developer will likely end up building the new 34-unit apartment building, the last portion of the project that has taken nearly two decades since it was first proposed as an office park and for which a special permit was granted in 2005.

InWood Park is located on a silver of land off Route 93. It can only be accessed through Reading and Wilmington.
InWood Park
William Bergeron, the site engineer for InWood, said the revised plans call for a building with a slightly smaller footprint, and will be similar to the other apartment buildings that already exist at InWood.
Issues with the city's Planning Board, Conservation Commission and Engineering Dept. either didn't exist or have been resolved, Bergeron noted. The Planning Board attached five routine conditions to a favorable recommendation it issued on March 1.
Bergeron reminded the Special Permits Committee that the city assumes no maintenance responsibility for the roads, drainage, snow removal, sewerage, and rubbish removal.
"There is no drain on the city's infrastructure other than the few kids who go to Woburn schools," said Bergeron.
Attorney Frank DiLuna, with the Murtha Cullina firm, reminded the council of the substantial mitigation package that went with the special permit, the $650,000 annual tax revenue (which will increase to about $700,000 with the final building) and the $2.45 million the developer paid to the city to buy back the affordability component of the project.

Ward 4 Alderman Michael Anderson, who said he was initially "very on the fence" about the modification, noted the age restriction was included because, "someone thought it was important," primarily that residents over 55 don't have school-aged children.
Dale said the fears back in 2005 that the InWood project would attract children, "haven't materialized here," likely due to the remote location from the schools. He said the number is, "very, very low ... in the low 30s."
Another factor may be the lack of 3-bedroom units, which tend to attract families with children. All the InWood units are either 1- or 2-bedroom.
"We had good intentions in 2005, but this is (now) the best use for the property," added Dale. "This is the right thing to do whether we own it or someone else owns it."
The finished portion of InWood has a 96-98 percent occupancy rate, according to Dale.
"It's been a great asset for us," he said. "It's been very successful."
He noted the prospective buyer is, "legitimate, well-capitalized, (and) similar to AvalonBay."

In response to a question from Ward 6 Alderman Michael Raymond, Bergeron noted the lot for the new building will contain 68 spaces, two for each unit. There is also potential parking on the access road, which was built back when InWood was supposed to be an office park and is 44 feet wide.
Alderman at-large Richard Haggerty said he had some concerns about the modification, but is "far more comfortable" after hearing from AvalonBay at the committee meeting.
"It's kind of a ways away," said Haggerty. "If you have kids, you probably don't want to live that far away."
"I can't imagine a lower impact on the city," he added. "To get there from here, you'd probably have to use GPS."
In response to another question from Haggerty, Dale said the prospective new owner is aware of the modifications. The sale may be completed before construction begins this summer.
Ward 2 Alderman Richard Gately called InWood "an excellent project," but said the modifications end with this round, if the council approves on April 6.
"Don't bother coming back; whoever builds it," Gately said. "We can't be playing this game forever."

Mite 3's come out flying against Burlington

Sunday afternoon, March 27th, Wilmington Mite 3 youth hockey team met Burlington Mites for the second time during the month. Colin Sainato led the team onto the ice as the net minder for the Wildcats. Burlington has shown that they are a true powerhouse in the division as they have a commanding presence of second place in the Division.

The Wildcats knew that they had their work cut out for them. Derek Gallucci, Liam Crowley, and Drew Gallucci came out skating hard as they tried to break out from the neutral zone. Gina Bertolami and Jimmy McCarron started on defense protecting the Wilmington goalie. Derek Gallucci showed his strong two way game as he back checked an early play to stop a three on none during a line change. Joey Cornish, Aydan Churchill and Gannon Ricci showed that they can cause havoc as they cleared the puck using the boards while creating offensive chances early.

Conor Peterson, Peter

Kourkoutas played standup defense clearing rebounds out as Colin Sainato made key save after save. James Kourkoutas played great defense pushing the puck out of the zone. Evan Munro, Owen White and Jack Farrell used their speed and stick handling to move the puck efficiently. Unfortunately it was Burlington that got the bounce early and found themselves on a two on one break-out, Collin Sainato made the save but the open side got the rebound to put them up 1-0. Jack Farrell tried to strike back but found the post. Burlington struck again to put them up 2-0 in the first. Evan Munro made a great individual play to back check and stop a 3-on-1 break out. Burlington was too good on this day as they seemed to be a bit faster, striking twice more in the 1st making it 4-0.

Owen White got his chance pushing the offense but was denied by the Burlington goaltender. Gina Bertolami and James Kourkoutas had amazing defensive games as they continuously stuffed the opposition. Conor Peterson made a great stick save on defense as Jimmy McCarron stopped a three on one break-out. In the second period Joe Cornish made a nice play only to be denied by the Burlington goalie. Peter Kourkoutas showed his strength as he cleared rebounds and players alike from the crease.

Owen White tried over and over to break through the defense and finally made it only to be stopped by a hot goalie. Finally the Gallucci brothers found each other as Drew found Derek on a break-out to cut the score to 4-1. James Kourkoutas was all over the ice making plays happen and stopping Burlington breakouts giving the offense a chance at breaking through the neutral zone trap. Joe Cornish made an unbelievable stop on the goal line as he found himself on the ice swinging his stick to stop a goal on the line.

Burlington struck again making it 5-1. Owen White kept on trying to break through and did again only to score this time and cutting the score to 5-2.

Wilmington Buzzers program ends season on a high note

For the second straight weekend, the Wilmington Buzzers thrilled their fans in a packed Ristuccia Arena where the Blue and White teams competed against each other in the Buzzer Showdown.

The event started off by introducing all players, who also received a well deserved award for a great season of hard work on the ice, presented to them by one of the Buzzer greats of yesteryear, Nathan DiMeco. Everyone in attendance was then treated to a stellar a cappella performance of the National Anthem by Wilmington High School's own Sean Woodbury. We knew it was time for hockey when referee Robert Perault blew his whistle and gathered the starters on the ice. With the simple drop of a puck, "The Showdown" was on.

John Spina and Chase Perault put on a goalie clinic making awe inspiring saves on everything from breakaways to goal crashings. Goal scorers Thea Alberti, Lia Kourkoutas, Lauren D'Angelo, Zach Smith, Ryan Dusablon, Joey Pastore, Rose Cuzzo and Jillian Fisher gave us all something to cheer about.

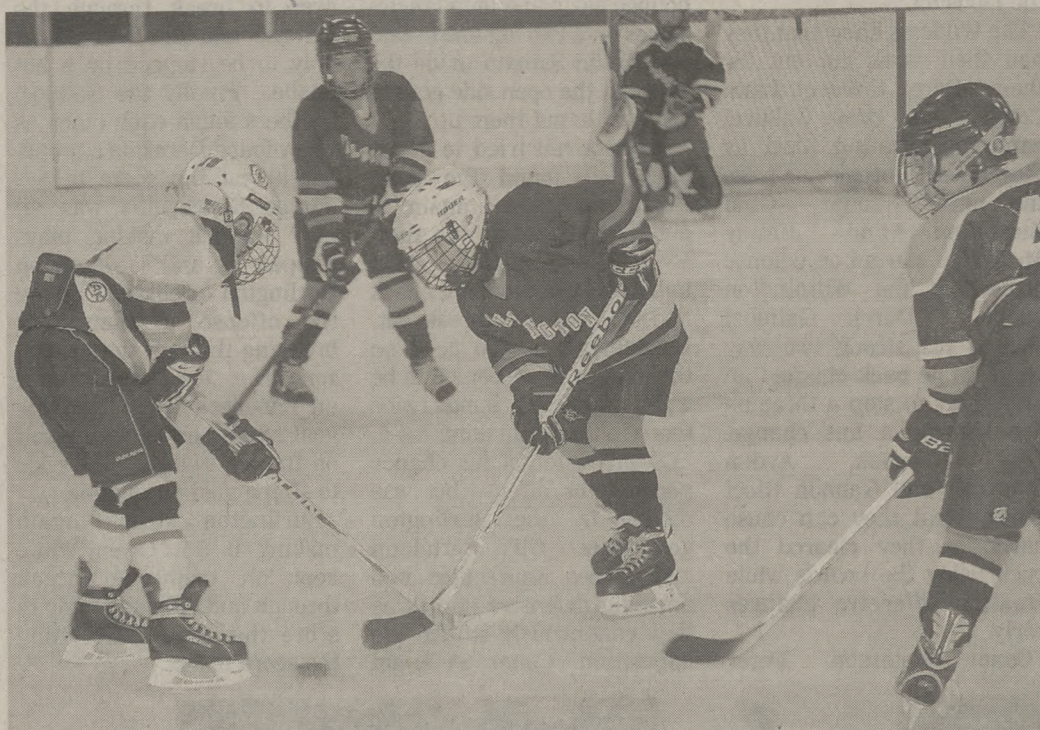

The team's passing prowess thrilled the crowd as Keegan Gray, Cameron Gagnon, Nate Packer, Ryan Ackerley, and Nicholas Ackerman, assisted on multiple goals scored. The defensive might of Brian Dunfey, James Fisher, Morgan Vigeant, Jake Chirichiello, and Jack Andersen was something to take extra note of as their positioning and ability to clear the puck out of the zone was something they worked very hard on in practice.

And then the puck handling brought tears to our eyes, to see the six months worth of stick handling drills around cones applied to game play as Michael Daniels, Annabelle Kane, William O'Shea, Kevin Ackerley, Patrick Callahan, and Connor Hill weaved through the neutral zone on continuous offensive attacks. And who could forget the big shooters - Ryan Collins, Tristan DiMeco, and Ella Cedrone? Snapping off blistering wrist shots and occasional slap shots requiring the goalies to stay focused on their game at all times.

The Wilmington Bzzers Youth Hockey program ended its season this past week in style, with a couple of memorable performances. (courtesy photos).

Mite 2's participate in Billerica tourney

The Wilmington Mite 2 youth hockey team recently participated in the Hallenborg Memorial tournament held in Billerica. The Wildcats played in three preliminary games, the first one against Woburn, with Wilmington coming away with the 2-0 victory.

Alex Fitzler was in the net for the Wildcats, and he witnessed back-and-forth action for most of the first period. Then with about a minute to go in the period, Brendan Ardito buried a nice shot to the back of the net thanks to help from teammates Robbie Courtney and Harry Serounian giving Wilmington the 1-0 lead.

Wilmington was able to hold off several good bids by Woburn, and then David Bazile netted the much needed insurance goal, with an assist going to Joey Hartzel. Besides the two goals, the Wildcats also had terrific offensive all-around play from Anthony Bowker and CJ Petrie.

The second game was against Billerica, and this time Max Churchill was the goalie for the Wildcats and he helped lead Wilmington to a 10-4 victory. He was able to relax a bit as teammate Aiden Elkins scored a goal just a minute into the game, putting a nice wrist shot to the back of the net with assists going to Hartzel and AJ Lavigne. That was just the start of it as Wilmington ended up scoring ten goals in the game. Elkins netted a hat trick, while other goals were scored by Matt Ardito, Hartzel, Courtney and Bowker. Assists on the game went to Petrie, LaVigne, Elkins, Fitzler and Nathan Alberti. Also contributing to the offensive attack were Matt Vinal and Serounian, who were all over the ice and keeping the opposing Billerica forwards at bay.

After a day off, the Wildcats came out on Saturday just past noon against their final prelim foe, the Burlington Red Devils. Burlington came into the game with a record of 1-1, with eyes of beating the undefeated Wildcats and pushing themselves into the championship game conversation. But the Wildcats had none of that as David Bazile scored a goal in the first period and then Matt Ardito tapped home the second goal on a great pass from LaVigne making it 2-0.

Wilmington was able to keep Burlington off the scoreboard, thanks to terrific defensive efforts from Serounian and Vinal. Churchill earned his first career shut out.

That win against Burlington put Wilmington into the championship game against the same Woburn team they defeated earlier in the tournament. The Wildcats' offense went to work early as Alberti worked very hard in the offensive zone and helped Ardito bury his chance in front of the net and Wilmington had a 1-0 lead. In the second period, Bazile found the net twice and the Wildcats had a comfortable 3-0 lead. Then once again the team's defensive players clamped down and Churchill went on to record his second straight shut out.

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Tewksbury's Jenn Foley was named captain of the Plymouth State women's lacrosse team this year, and judging by her performance on the field so far, she is handling the responsibilities quite well.

The junior midfielder scored two goals and notched an assist to help lead the Panthers to a 14-8 victory over Linfield College in Oregon last Tuesday. The Panthers had beaten Linfield the previous game as well and now boast a record of 2-0.

Foley and Plymouth State are back on the East Coast this week when they take on Fitchburg State on Tuesday. The team is on the road until April 14th, when they have their home opener against Bridgewater State.

Wilmington's Nick Farnsworth was a standout track athlete for Harvard two years ago, but missed all of last season due to Tommy John surgery. This year he certainly is making up for lost time.

The Wilmington High graduate, a junior for the Crimson, had a personal best throw of 64.65 meters in the javelin in a meet against Rice University in a meet last week in Texas. That throw beat his previous personal best by more than 10 feet.

The Crimson next compete in two weeks at Princeton in the Sam Howell Invitational.

Kristin Judge won the high jump for the first time this season for the Penn University track team in last weekend's "Big 5 Invitational" in Philadelphia.

The junior from Tewksbury cleared a height of 1.65 meters to take the crown. The meet was the first home one for the Quakers this season. They are back in action next week at home again when they host the annual "Penn Invite" on Saturday.

Carlton Lentini had an outstanding day both at the plate and in the field for the Lasell College baseball team as he helped lead his squad to a two-game sweep over the Massachusetts College of Liberal Arts in a doubleheader on Saturday.

The junior shortstop for Wilmington went 2-for-3 with two RBI and two runs for the Lasers in the first game, a tight 8-7 victory. In the second game he had arguably the defensive play of the day as he laid out to snag a groundball that went up the middle in the fifth inning. He flipped the ball to the second baseman, who then was able to turn the double play.

Lasell, who boast an early season record of 9-5, hosted Eastern Nazarene College on Tuesday.

Michael Chartier of Northern Essex Community College received NJCAA Baseball Pitcher of the Week honors. Chartier, a former Tewksbury High Varsity baseball pitcher, picked up a win, a save and a loss as Northern Essex opened its season against teams from the DI, DII and DIII ranks in the NJCAA.

On March 14, Chartier went seven innings, allowing no runs and striking out five in a 7-0 win over DIII Herkimer County (N.Y.). He then picked up a save by tossing two innings against DI Anne Arundel (Md.) where he allowed just one hit and struck out one in a 5-3 victory. He closed the week with a tough 3-2 loss to DII CC of Rhode Island, he scattered seven hits, allowed two runs and struck out three. For the week he allowed just two earned runs in 15 innings on the hill, walked just one batter while striking out nine.

Tewksbury's Mike Delponte crushed a two-run homer for the Bryant University baseball team in a 4-2 victory over Monmouth on Saturday in the second half of a doubleheader.

Delponte hit his home run in the fifth inning as he blasted a shot over the right field fence. The junior went 2-for-3 in the game.

Delponte has raised his average to .255 with two homers, five runs and 11 RBI. Bryant currently stands at 9-12 and travel to the University of Maine this weekend for a three-game series against the Black Bears.

The UMass Lowell baseball team is off to a scorching start this year and the cold weather of Massachusetts haven't slowed the River Hawks down.

Three local players have seen action for UML this season. Tewksbury's Pat Devlin, a redshirt sophomore, has played in eight games, starting in four. He's batting .267 with four hits, four runs and an RBI.

Tewksbury's Vinny DePierro, a sophomore left-hander, has been solid both starting and out of the bullpen. He sports a record of 1-0 with a 2.03 ERA. He also has 13 strikeouts in 13.1 innings of work. Wilmington's Nick Boutoures, a freshman righthander, has pitched in one game this year, striking out two in an inning of work. The River Hawks hope to continue their torrid pace this Saturday when they travel to Albany to take on St. Rose College in a doubleheader.

Five local runners, including four from Tewksbury, competed in the "Irish Feet are Running Five Mile Road Race" on Saturday in Lowell. Marli Piccolo finished in 39th place with a time of 38:46. Kim Burdyk's time of 42:02 placed her 56th. Marianne Sullivan finished in 132nd place with a time of 52:13, and Kim Landon was right behind her in 134th place at 53:17. Wilmington's Ron Coutu finished in 68th place with a time of 43:41.

Tewksbury's Natalie Lambert took part in Saturday's "Bridging the Gap 5K" in Haverhill, finishing in 18th place with a time of 41:15.

The "Run for the Troops 5K" will be held in Andover this Sunday at 9 am. More information can be found on this site: www.runforthe-troops5k.com/.

Tewksbury Youth Football has announced its registration dates for the 2011 season. The first one will be Wednesday, April 6th at the Wynn Middle School. All dates and times can be found here: www.eteamz.com/-TewksburyYouthFootball/.

Blazers, Bucks and Hornets win league titles

Senior Division

Blazers 43, Rockets 39

The Blazers captured the Senior League Championship title with a 43-39 victory over the Rockets.

On offense Zack Cowles led all scorers with 12 points. Connor Sullivan and Ricky Berquist added nine each. Christos Kourkoulos and Matt LaCascia had eight and five respectfully. Defense is what won the game for the Blazers holding the leagues' most potent offense to just 39 points. The Blazers big guys Mike McDermott, John Melloni, and Brendan Cooke controlled the boards on both ends of the court. Without the tenacious pressure put on by Brendan Kelly, Ali Jose Reza-Reyes, and Mike Eggerts the outcome of the game would have gone the other way.

Ball control was the key to our success with the strong play of guards Kourkoulos, Berquist, Kelly, and Sullivan. The presence under the rim was no match with the rest of the league being led by McDermott, Cooke, Meloni, and Lacascia. The unselfish play of Kelly, and Reza-Reyes is what contributed the Blazers leading the league in defense.

Intermediate Division

Bucks 31, Bullets 29

The Bucks won the Intermediate Division championship with an exciting 31-29 win over the Bullets. Congratulations goes out to coach of the Bucks Chris Temmallo, and his players Cole Buglley, Andrew Boudreau, Jared Ward, Robbie Temmallo, Jimmy Wink, Cam Charmichael, Alec DiCiccio, Jonathan Fuller, Rickey Tibbetts and Jimmy Boucher.

Junior Division

Hornets vs Mavericks

The Hornets won the championship game on Saturday against the Mavericks. The impressive players who make up the team are Nicholas Catizone, Blake and Braden Hiltz, Alex Kelleher, Andrew Maclean, Ryan Meuse, Shaun Murphy, Christopher and Michael Repucci, and Kyle Harkins. Running the table is something each player should be proud and is not an easy accomplishment.

The final game of the TBBL Juniors was closer than the score appears.

The Mavericks played stifling defense during the first half but gave way to the Hornets during the second half and fell to an amazing team 40-24. The Mavericks, who were seeded seventh entering the playoffs, put up a valiant effort.

The Mavericks defensive was led by Brandon Coolidge (7 rebounds), Derek Lefler (6 rebounds), Matt Salvato (3 rebounds, 2 steals), Jimmy Strickler (5 rebounds) and Anthony Miano (2 steals, 2 rebounds). Offensively the Mavericks were led by Joe Rosberg (10 points, 9 rebounds, 1 block), Michael Lambet (6 points, 4 rebounds), Kyle Obst (4 points, 6 rebounds, 3 steals), Kyle Rogers (2 points, 7 rebounds) and Riley Frost (2 points, 3 steals).

Some Hall of Fame Florida memories

By: Rick Cooke

POMPANO BEACH FLORIDA- Having 'survived' a heat wave that was approaching 90 degrees and a decided lack of rain, I search for that first suitcase that I'm sure is buried somewhere under a rubble of dirty laundry, unused sunscreen and more bathing suits than I will ever need. Yes, I am well rested and as tanned as a 55-year-old guy with a perpetual red Irish blush can possibly be at this time of year. But, as is always the case with this column, I'm not the story, just the messenger happily catching a lucky break.

Not only have I spent four months in South Florida, but I was blessed with the opportunity to meet some interesting people with inspirational stories to share. People like Myrna and her son Nick. Myrna and Nick are my new heroes, and I got to know a little bit about their story before the annual Joe DiMaggio Legends Game played at Fort Lauderdale Stadium for the benefit of the hospital named for the late New York Yankee legend.

Many long-retired major league baseball Hall of Famers give of their winter time to don that now snug uniform again, sign autographs and engage in this exhibition game at the also-retired stadium the Baltimore Orioles called their spring training home for many years before leaving for updated quarters up the road apiece on busy Route 95.

There was Bert Campaneris, Orlando Cepeda, Ron Swoboda, Dennis 'Oil Can' Boyd, Minnie Minoso, Brooks Robinson and Bob Bolin. Who is Bob Bolin? He is a retired San Francisco Giants middle inning relief pitcher circa 1965, who was happy as a clam when I tossed him a baseball and asked for his autograph. I live in Boston, but I'm a Giants fan, meaning that I actually recognized Bolin and would have to be satisfied with a quick game of pitch and catch and that lone signature on my baseball that was bought and paid for by retired Tewksbury High School varsity baseball coach Bob Ware.

I thanked Ware for the ball and spotted Bolin standing alone in the outfield under a scorching South Florida sun. Since no one from the 2010 World Champion San Francisco Giants was available - and no one but me was clamoring for an autograph from a retired middle-of-the-road middle innings relief pitcher, I settled for a wave from the former Giant and a brief conversation before Bolin lobbed the ball back over the fence, where I survived a bad back to make a routine grab.

"I bet you wish you were setting up Brian Wilson for this year's Giants," I told Bolin. That's Brian Wilson the bullpen closer, not Brian Wilson the former Beach Boy. Anybody who knows me can testify to the fact that I'm a big fan of both Mr. Wilsons. On this day, those thoughts of fandom would get put on the backburner for sure as I made my way to the attractive woman who was busily snapping pitchers of retired Florida Marlins catcher Charles Johnson.

"He looks like he could still play. Do you know Charles?" was my way of getting a conversation started as I steadfastly avoided competing with several 10-year-olds who were clamoring for Campaneris' signature.

Myrna explained that she loved the Marlins and had done some photography for the team several years ago. The Marlins have won a pair of World Championships and earned a small fan-base by Red Sox standards. Next season, the team will be playing in a sparkling new state-of-the-art stadium and will sometimes still be hard-pressed to draw fans.

They can forget about those crowds for now. They have Myrna and her son Nick, who along with many other cancer survivors throughout this region and beyond, have come to depend upon the quality care at the Joe DiMaggio Children's Hospital of Broward and Palm Beach counties. We have the Jimmy Fund and Dana Farber here in Boston, and it helps to know that when I meet a person whose life has been touched by cancer here on vacation I will always have a point of reference. There is no preference for me where I get my cancer treatment, just as long as I'm still around to meet friendly people like Myrna. Myrna's son Nick was diagnosed with brain cancer on Friday, April 13 of 2007.

"I guess you could say that was our lucky day," says Nick's mom, who is smiling with good reason.

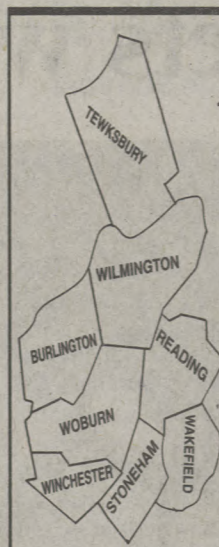

Four years later, Nick is cancer-free after receiving his treatment in South Florida. He is in college down here majoring in sports management. He has a mom eager to tell me how proud she is of her son and the treatment that was part of the care supported by events like the DiMaggio Legends Game.

Brooks Robinson walks by and everyone on this day recognizes the Baltimore Orioles Hall of Famer as he ducks into the third-base dugout. No one recognizes Myrna. No one except Charles Johnson, who smiles and sends a wave her way before she quickly snaps another photograph.

"Charles lived in my neighborhood," offers Myrna. I tell her that I won't take up anymore of her time on this beautiful mid-afternoon in a stadium that has been all but forgotten, sitting back from the highway empty and under-utilized.

These legends and people like Myrna and her son Nick have found at least one way to help get this old, rickety stadium up and running

Census 2010

Facts and figures tell part of the story of area communities

By PAUL FEELY

The latest round of facts and figures released as part of the 2010 United States Census shows that most, but not all, communities within the Middlesex East readership area gained residents, while another available set of data and graphics helps rank area communities in interesting categories.

What community has the toughest commute? Which has the highest median income? It's all there, if one takes the time to mine the data and find it.

Last week, Secretary of State William Galvin released the latest round of data, which shows that of the 10 Middlesex East communities, Stoneham is the only local town to lose population over the last 10 years.

According to the data, the population for each Middlesex East community in 2010 is as follows:

City or Town, followed by 2000 population total, 2010 population total, and percent change

Burlington:	22,876	24,498	7.09
Lynnfield:	11,542	11,596	0.47
North Reading:	13,837	14,892	7.62
Reading:	23,708	24,747	4.38
Stoneham:	22,219	21,437	-3.52
Tewksbury:	28,851	28,961	0.38
Wakefield:	24,804	24,932	0.52
Wilmington:	21,363	22,325	4.50
Winchester:	20,810	21,374	2.71
Woburn:	37,258	38,120	2.31

Statewide, Boston, Worcester and Springfield grew in population but some areas of Massachusetts including Cape Cod and Berkshire County saw losses. The data released Tuesday also showed significant increases among the black, Hispanic and Asian populations in Massachusetts, while the number of white residents declined slightly.

Boston's population rose from 589,141 in the 2000 census to 617,594 in the 2010 census, an increase of about 4.8 percent.

The population in Worcester, the state's second-largest city, also rose about 4.8 percent to 181,045 residents.

Springfield's population increased by less than 1 percent but remained above 150,000 residents, a threshold that Secretary of State William Galvin said was important for western Massachusetts' largest city to continue receiving certain federal reimbursements.

Lawrence, Revere and Plymouth were among other communities that saw significant population gains, while Fall River, Somerville and Gloucester were among those that saw population declines from 2000.

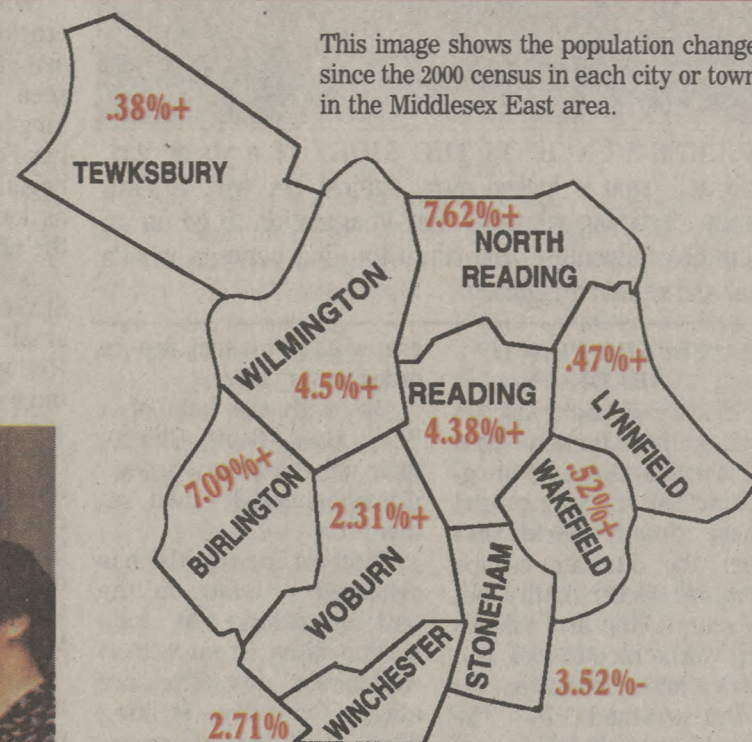

The state is losing one of its 10 seats in the U.S. House of Representatives because of overall population shifts announced earlier by the Census Bureau. A 24-member legislative commission has been appointed to redraw the district map.

Until now, Galvin said, lawmakers trying to define the new districts have had only estimates to work with.

"They have had to try to guess based on estimates," he said. "They now have real numbers."

A local state representative, House Minority Leader Brad Jones (R-North Reading), is a member of the redistricting committee.

Data released in recent months by the United States Census Bureau includes interesting factoids regarding Middlesex East communities. Going over the numbers provided in the American Community Surveys (ACS) for 2005 to 2009 provides the following talking points.

What community has the highest number of households?

According to the ACS data, Woburn has the highest number of households among Middlesex East communities, at 15,000, though Wilmington has the largest average household size at 3.1 people per home.

The average household size in Woburn was 2.5 people.

Families made up 65 percent of the households in Woburn. This figure includes both married-couple families (48 percent) and other families (17 percent). Nonfamily households made up 35 percent of all households in Woburn. Most of the nonfamily households were people living alone, but some were composed of people living in households in which no one was related to the householder.

What community lays claim to the worst commute for its residents?

The ACS data shows that Lynnfield residents have the longest commute among Middlesex East residents, at 30 minutes on average. Reading is second at 29 minutes, followed by Wakefield and North Reading, each at 28.8 minutes. Woburn residents have the best commute, at 23.3 minutes.

What community has the highest median income of households?

There's no surprise here - the Middlesex East community with the highest median income is Winchester, at $118,000 per household.

Reading was second at $97,645, with North Reading third at $94,250. The community with the lowest median income per household is Woburn at $69,196.

What community has the highest median monthly housing costs?

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"SUCKER PUNCH" AN ACTION FANTASY

"SUCKER PUNCH" IS THE STORY of a young girl, Babydoll, who is locked away against her will. It stars Emily Browning who uses her imagination to go on an incredible adventure that blurs the line between what's real and what's imaginary.

"SUCKER PUNCH" GRADE: **

"Sucker Punch" is an epic action fantasy that takes us into the vivid imagination of a young girl whose dream world provides the ultimate escape from her darker reality, but the storytelling and characters (while nice to look at), leave a lot to be desired.

Unrestrained by the boundaries of time and place, the young girl, Babydoll, is free to go where her mind takes her, and her incredible adventures blur the lines between what's real and what is imaginary.

She has been locked away against her will, but Babydoll (Emily Browning) has not lost her will to survive. Determined to fight for her freedom, she urges four other young girls (the reluctant Sweet Pea (Abbie Cornish), the outspoken Rocket (Jena Malone), the street-smart Blondie (Vanessa Hudgens) and the fiercely loyal Amber (Jamie Chung)-to band together and try to escape a terrible fate at the hands of their captors, Blue (Oscar Isaac) and Madam Gorski (Carla Gugino), before the mysterious High Roller (Jon Hamm) comes for Babydoll.

Led by Babydoll, the girls engage in fantastical warfare against everything from samurais to serpents, with a virtual arsenal at their disposal. Together, they must decide what they are willing to sacrifice in order to stay alive.

But with the help of a Wise Man (Scott Glenn), their unbelievable journey - if they succeed - will set them free.

Director Zack Snyder has displayed a talent in the past for making very cool-looking films. From '300' to 'Watchmen,' his films are always visually striking films. And the advertisements for his latest movie, Sucker Punch, seems to be up the same alley, with even more crazy action sequences and fantastic ideas.

The only problem is, it's a one-trick pony. The fights are great, full of blood-pumping action, but there's nothing else. The plot is contrived so as to set up the fantastic world the movie takes place in, and there's not enough development taking place to care much at all about any of our heroines.

The action is great, the music is pumping, but this is one movie that will only be enjoyed by Snyder's most diehard fans.

"LIMITLESS" GRADE: ***

This interesting thriller showcases star Bradley Cooper in a role where he isn't recovering from a 'Hangover', and gets to share the screen with Robert De Niro - and he is more than up to the task.

The storyline revolves around a pill that unlocks our full potential as human beings.

Aspiring author Eddie Morra (Cooper) is suffering from chronic writer's block, but his life changes instantly when an old friend introduces him to NZT, a revolutionary new pharmaceutical that allows him to tap his full potential.

With every synapse crackling, Eddie can recall everything he has ever read, seen or heard, learn any language in a day, comprehend complex equations and beguile anyone he meets - as long as he keeps taking the untested drug.

Soon Eddie takes Wall Street by storm, parlaying a small stake into millions. His accomplishments catch the eye of mega-mogul Carl Van Loon (De Niro), who invites him to help broker the largest merger in corporate history. But they also bring Eddie to the attention of people willing to do anything to get their hands on his stash of NZT.

With his life in jeopardy and the drug's brutal side effects grinding him down, Eddie dodges mysterious stalkers, a vicious gangster and an intense police investigation as he attempts to hang on to his dwindling supply long enough to outwit his enemies.

The movie plays like a message about the dangers of addiction, as the effects of the drug are very similar to that of cocaine.

But it certainly doesn't get preachy, and in some ways celebrates what Cooper's character is able to accomplish while under its spell.

This is a drama with a science-fiction element to it, and the team behind it realizes their audience isn't interested in being preached to.

"MARS NEEDS MOMS" GRADE: ***

'Mars Needs Moms' is a very sweet and sentimental science fiction story that answers the question Who needs moms, anyway?

Turns out everyone does - no matter where in the universe you call home.

The plot is as follows: Nine-year-old Milo (Seth Green) finds out just how much he needs his mom (Joan Cusack) when she's nabbed by Martians who plan to steal her exceptional abilities as a mom for their own young.

Produced by the team behind "Disney's A Christmas Carol" and "The Polar Express," "Mars Needs Moms" showcases Milo's quest to save his mom that involves stowing away on a spaceship, navigating an elaborate, multi-level planet and taking on the alien nation and their leader (Mindy Sterling).

With the help of a tech-savvy, underground earthman named Gribble (Dan Fogler) and a rebel Martian girl called Ki (Elisabeth Harnois), Milo just might find his way back to his mom in more ways than one. The film is based on a book by Berkeley Breathed.

When the story begins, Milo is not happy with his mom, whose by-the-book attitude is not appreciated. When the Martians abduct her in the middle of the night, Milo stows away on their spaceship to try to get her back.

Once there, he is helped by a man who has been hiding on Mars since he tried to save his own mom when she was abducted in the 1980s. He is also helped by a young Martian girl taken with Earth culture.

Younger kids may be frightened at times, because the trouble that mom and son run into can be scary. It's exciting for older kids, maybe too much excitement for toddlers.

"THE ADJUSTMENT BUREAU" GRADE: ***

Strong performances and chemistry you can believe in by the two leads help make 'The Adjustment Bureau' much more than your average science fiction thriller.

The film asks the basic question, do we control our destiny, or do unseen forces manipulate us? Matt Damon stars as a man who glimpses the future that Fate has planned for him and realizes he wants something else. To get it, he must pursue the only woman he's ever loved across, under and

Burbeen Lecture April 7 "Ghost Towns of the Wild West"

The Burbeen Free Lecture series season concludes on Thursday, April 7th with a film and lecture entitled "Ghost Towns of the Wild West" presented by Gray Warriner.

Tombstone! Deadwood! Virginia City! Gold fever ignited one of the greatest mass migrations in the world. Wagon trains and fortune seekers headed for the gold fields in California, Nevada, Colorado, Montana and virtually all points west. Visit real ghost towns and those reborn, such as Jerome, Arizona and Bannock, Montana. With archival photographs, travel back to the late 1800s and then dissolve, flawlessly, to the same scenes today. This is the real Wild West, where some of the stories are even wilder than the fictional accounts that were inspired by them. This is a modern Wild West adventure where you won't believe your eyes, except that it's all real!

Gray Warriner is an independent producer of documentaries, and travelogues. He has worked as a cameraman, director, and producer, and has won over 100 national and international awards for film excellence. For the past thirty years he has headed up Camera One, a Seattle based production company that specializes in educational and adventure/travel films. Gray - a pilot, certified diver, underwater photographer and an avid skier, who particularly enjoys hiking and whitewater rafting - is a true adventurer.

The program will be held in the Joyce Middle School auditorium at 55 Locust Street in Woburn. The doors open at 6:30 p.m. and the program begins at 7:00 p.m. No tickets or reservations are required and admission is free. The Burbeen Free Lecture Series was established by Leonard Thompson in 1892 to present an annual course of lectures on interesting topics of the day for the benefit of the community.

SURELY IN APRIL, MAYBE BY JUNE

Please check your local "Daily Times Chronicle" for daily updates.

MUCH TO PONDER IN READING

"The Board of Selectmen has recommended further study of two locations for possible placement of a new cemetery garage for the town's Department of Public Works (DPW)," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The DPW is seeking to replace the cemetery garage, currently located at the Laurel Hill cemetery.

"Officials report that while a few additions have been constructed over the years, the original section of the building is well over 100 years old. Over the past several years, the garage has experienced major storage issues, as well as an overall structural deterioration typically seen in century-old buildings.

"Presently, the cemetery garage consists of a main floor containing about 1,550 square feet of space, a two-bay basement garage having approximately 400 square feet, attic space of about 1,100 square feet, and outside equipment storage utilizing about 275 square feet. The total area currently used is therefore 3,325 square feet. Last month, the Selectmen heard recommendations contained in a report from the town's Cemetery Board, detailing possible locations for a new garage.

"According to an executive summary of that report, based on the rating system developed for this study, the following locations should be considered for additional analysis as potential sites for the new cemetery garage facility: Laurel Hill cemetery (existing site), Forest Glen cemetery, Pearl Street at Audubon Road.

"The Selectmen have now voted to endorse the further exploration of two of these sites, Laurel Hill and Forest Glen, for further exploration."

YET TO BE DECIDED IN WINCHESTER

"Five months after first visiting the Planning Board with a building proposal for the open lot across from the

through the streets of modern-day New York.

On the brink of winning a seat in the U.S. Senate, ambitious politician David Norris (Damon) meets beautiful contemporary ballet dancer Elise Sellas (Emily Blunt) - a woman like none he's ever known. But just as he realizes he's falling for her, mysterious men conspire to keep the two apart. David learns he is up against the agents of Fate itself - the men of the mysterious Adjustment Bureau - who will do everything in their considerable power to prevent David and Elise from being together.

In the face of overwhelming odds, he must either let her go and accept a predetermined path, or risk everything to defy Fate and be with her. The Adjustment Bureau is written for the screen and directed by George Nolfi (writer of Ocean's Twelve, co-writer of The Bourne Ultimatum) and is based on a short story by Philip K. Dick ("Total Recall," "Minority Report" and "Blade Runner").

You see, a romantic pairing of David and Elise is not part of Fate's Master Plan, so the men in hats (led by John Slattery) resort to intimidation to keep the two apart. Because he is now ahead of his intended time line, David catches a glimpse of the Adjustment Bureau at work: When he walks into his office, on a romantic high after running into Elise, he hardly notices his co-workers are frozen statues as he heads to tell a friend, Charlie (Michael Kelly) the news. But Charlie is also frozen stiff - turns out his brain is being worked on by the bureau, a group whose work one normally never sees.

But David does, which means he receives a threat that should he ever reveal what he's seen, his memory and life will be wiped away. He's told he and Elise are to stay apart, but not why that must be. He of course refuses to let anything stand in the way of love, and disobeys the order.

Fire Station, the developers and architect returned with revised plans," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Though the plans are not final, the developers may be ready by June to apply for a special permit.

"The land is part of the Mill Pond Building lot. The existing building (often referred to as the 'laundry building' from its original use) is to remain as is. The plan is to build a new building in front of it.

"In between visits to the Planning Board, the developers consulted with Conservation Administrator Elaine Vreeland about issues with building near the river. Bill Byrne told the board that they believe they are conforming to the riverfront regulations if they confine the size of the building's footprint to the size of the existing degraded area, the parking lot.

"The existing parking lot would be removed, and parking for both the office building and condos would be located in two floors of the new building, accessed by a ramp down and a ramp up. The ramps are planned to connect to Converse Place. Total required parking is 27.3 spaces; the plans allow for 36 spaces...

"Interested in increasing the housing stock in the downtown, the board was interested in the project both in October and when the revised plans came to them this month. However, they had some concerns and suggestions.

"Mary McKenna focused on the blank facade created by the garage and also mentioned the possibility of activating the roof.

"There was some discussion about the orientation of the building. Lance Grenzeback said that the building works under the rules but leaves some odd spaces.

"To the suggestion that the building be oriented along Converse Place, Mike Manzo asked where they would put the parking, and Byrne said they need some distance for the proper slope of the ramps. Asked if the ramps could be located inside the building, architect Peter Kuttner said that would wipe off spaces. Kuttner said his own 'pet peeve' was that the building is not parallel to Mount Vernon Street.

"Board members commented that they are working on the downtown and intend to improve the zoning. Maureen Meister asked the developers if they could give the board a chance to work with them. Manzo replied that the timing is tight and, though aware of the downtown initiative, he did not see any movement in the rezoning effort."

DECISIONS TO BE MADE IN TEWKSBURY

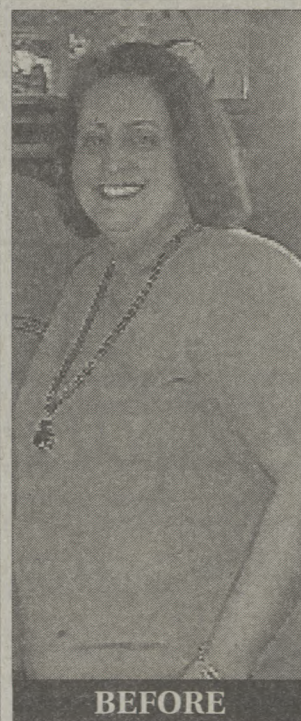

"Residents will be asked by way of a ballot question in the April 2 town election to shift 50% of the water and sewer debt from the rates to the tax levy," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"Town Manager Richard Montuori held an informational meeting ... to discuss the proposed measure."

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

From the '66-67 season through the '72-73 season, UCLA won the Men's D-1 NCAA basketball championship. They won again in the '74-75 season. What school broke the string and won the championship in the 73-74 season?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

Anders Lee beat WAKEFIELD'S JOE CANNATA 5:18 into overtime as #9 Notre Dame ended #7 Merrimack's historic season with a 4-3 victory in front of 7,608 fans at the Verizon Wireless Arena in the first round of the Northeast Regional.

Merrimack concludes its season with a 25-10-4 record. The Warriors set Division I school records for wins, points, road wins, and home wins, while advancing to their first-ever Hockey East Championship and earning its first NCAA Tournament bid since joining Hockey East.

The Warriors dominated the overtime session, getting the period's first six shots. But the first time the Irish moved the puck into Merrimack's zone, Lee hit a puck off a Warrior defender and right into the net for the game-winner at 5:18, ending Merrimack's season.

Headmaster Paul J. Moran is pleased to announce that five individuals and one team have been elected to the inaugural class of the Austin Preparatory School Athletic Hall of Fame. One honoree from each of Austin's five decades of athletic history will be inducted on April 30, 2011 at the Wyndham Andover Hotel.

Many outstanding Austin Prep athletes were nominated in 2011. Hall of Fame Committee members elected the inductees based on contributions to their sport while at Austin, championships won and records set.

This year's honorees include: WILLIAM SHAKALIS '68, TRACK;

TERRY BURKE '75, FOOTBALL; THE 1974-1975 MEN'S ICE HOCKEY TEAM; BOB DERRAH '84, TRACK & CROSS-COUNTRY; MICHELLE MCGONAGLE '99, SOCCER, SOFTBALL & BASKETBALL; AND CHRIS CAPRARO '02, HOCKEY.

Tickets to the induction ceremony are available for $40 per person. Reservations can be made online at www.austinprepschool.org

Need some help with the trivia question? It's not UMass.

Junior Cam Kneeland (Rowley, Mass.) tallied four RBI, including a two-run home run, to power the River Hawks to a 11-2 victory at Rollins College. The game marked the baseball team's final contest of its annual Florida trip, finishing with a 9-1 record on the southern swing.

The victory improved UMass Lowell's record to 13-2 overall, while the Tars fall to 17-9.

The River Hawks jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first. With runners on second and third, Kneeland plated runner while grounding out. A few batters later, ROB NOE (LYNNFIELD, MASS.) singled in Sean Burns (Colchester, Vt.).

UMass Lowell extended its lead in the fifth on an RBI double from Matt Jacobs (Hudson, Mass.) and a sacrifice fly by Kneeland.

The River Hawks exploded in the sixth inning, plating six runs to stun the Tars as they raced to a 10-0 advantage. Among the big hits, Burns laced a two RBI single and Kneeland clocked a two-run home run to left-centerfield.

Rollins was able to pick up a pair of runs over the next couple of innings, but Mark Sanborn (Hopkinton, Mass.) put the exclamation point on the night with a solo shot over the centerfield wall.

Among UMass Lowell's batters who performed well in the win, leadoff hitter Jacobs finished 2-for-4 with two RBI and three runs scored. Burns was 3-for-5 with two RBI and two runs, while MONTE MARROCO (WINCHESTER, MASS.) was a perfect 3-for-3 with an RBI, two runs, a walk and a hit by pitch.

The UMass-Lowell Softball River Hawks closed out their trip to Florida with a pair of victories, extending their winning streak to four straight. With an 11-7 record leaving the Sunshine State, this marks the first time since 2003 that the squad returned from their spring trip with a winning record. The squad downed Nyack 11-2 in the early game before defeating NYIT 8-6 later in the day.

Junior pitcher Elyssa Boris (Gardner, Mass.) picked up both wins on the day, while the River Hawks committed just one error over the two-game stretch compared to 10 by their opponents.

In the early game, UMass Lowell picked up a run in the first and built their lead to four 4-0 by the second inning. Their fate was sealed when they followed up with four runs in the fifth and three in the sixth. The game was decided in just six innings.

KATIE MAZURE (BURLINGTON, MASS.) led the River Hawk offense in the fifth by starting with a hard-hit grounder to short and advancing to second on an error. She was brought home on a single by junior Caelyn Ford (Dracut, Mass.). The inning continued as sophomore Brianna Mahoney (Billerica, Mass.) scored Ford on a single, and advancing on a sacrifice bunt by SENIOR SAMMY MACY (TEWKSBURY, MASS.). Mahoney was scored by senior Hilary Hopkins (San Diego, Calif.) before the inning ended.

Mazure, Hopkins and Macy all finished the game with a pair of RBI.

In the second game of the day and final of the trip, the River Hawks again built a 4-0 lead over NYIT by the third inning. NYIT began to rally back and by the top of the fourth it was 4-2. UMass Lowell retaliated with another three-run inning in the fourth, cushioning its lead enough to stave off a NYIT rally in the sixth and seventh. The River Hawks held on for the 8-6 victory, converting nine hits into eight runs. NYIT was only able to muster six runs on 12 hits.

Mazure went 3-3 in the game, collecting another two RBI, while senior Heather Ross (Waltham, Mass.) went 1-3 from the plate and also picked up a pair of RBI.

The River Hawks capitalized on back-to-back triples with two outs in the third as Mazure began with a triple to right center. She was brought home on a triple to left center by Ford as part of the three-run inning.

Gianino reflects on 18 years on Board of Selectmen in Burlington

BURLINGTON - A tenure that has lasted almost two decades will come to a close Monday night as Gary Gianino attends his last meeting as a member of the Board of Selectmen after serving for 18 years.

Gianino, 54, chose not to be a candidate this year after serving six consecutive terms on the board.

"It's time to go," he said of his decision to leave the board.

While a number of issues have changed since 1993, Gianino said, "The responsibilities of the job haven't changed at all."

He said he has always seen the board's role as providing guidance to the full-time professionals who run the daily operations of the town.

"I've always treated it as a Board of Directors," Gianino stated.

Asked about some of the accomplishments in which he takes particular pride, Gianino noted the tax increment financing agreement which brought Sun Microsystems to town in 1998.

He also stated the town has benefited greatly from the three-way land exchange with developers Gary Ruping and the Gutierrez Co.

"There's been a lot of benefits," he said.

He noted that the town was able to save the Grand View Farm from development and restore the property. Gianino also listed the market-rate condominiums off Wall Street, and housing for "empty nesters" at the back of the Grand View site on Center Street as positive outcomes of the exchange.

Serving as a chief financial officer, and now a chief operating officer, for a real estate investment company, Gianino said his work background has been "helpful" as selectman, noting efforts to contain costs in town government.

"I'm proud of the fact that I brought a business approach to the board," he stated.

Gianino, who has lived in Burlington for the past 25 years, served as a representative from the board in developing a master plan for school facilities. He stated the new Memorial School, for which he sits on the Building Committee, will be a tremendous asset to the town.

On the subject of what issues he would have liked to see completed before leaving the board, Gianino stated he hopes a license agreement with the city of Boston for the Cummings trust property can be finalized shortly. The agreement would allow the town to develop recreation facilities on a portion of the property off Blanchard Road.

He also said he would like to see a review of town operations to eliminate some redundancies, an issue he noted he is being studied by the Ways and Means Committee.

On the overall subject of town government, Gianino stated he favors to see Burlington go a town manager system, which would create "more synergy" and make operations less fragmented.

As to what he enjoyed most about being a selectman, Gianino responded, "Just helping a community better itself ... Hopefully, I played a positive part. I enjoyed seeing positive results."

Questioned about the most challenging aspect of the job, Gianino said, "The most challenging part is the big picture."

He said the board tends to deal with the issues of the moment and often is not as active as it should be in providing long-term direction.

Dealing with expectations from the townspeople is also a formidable task, Gianino noted.

"It's a challenge keeping people happy, keeping people from being cynical," he said.

Through the years, Gianino has worked with a wide range of colleagues on the board.

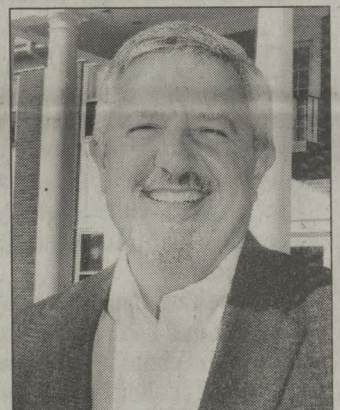

One of the keys to an effective board, he stated, is to take each vote "as a separate issue and when it's over, let it go."

Communication among the board is also vital, he stated.

One of the unfortunate developments in Gianino's mind is an increasing lack of civility in municipal discourse.

"It has changed ... not for the better," he noted.

Gianino cited the often-harsh debate over Immigration and Customs Enforcement locating a facility in New England Executive Park as a point where debate became more heated and personal.

Looking ahead, final thoughts

Gianino is married with three children and noted his wife Liz has been and continues to be active in the community in a variety of roles.

As for his future plans involving town government, Gianino, in his parting remarks at the January Town Meeting, hinted he might want to return to Town Meeting. That is where he started his 24-year career in local politics, with time on the Ways and Means Committee, including two years as chairman on his resume.

Commenting recently, Gianino said of his political future, "I don't know where I'll go."

He noted his passion for politics and government, nurtured during his time growing up in Medford, and commented, "I can't see myself staying out of town government."

Gianino was asked for some final thoughts on 18 years on the most high-profile board in town government.

"I really want to thank the people for giving me the opportunity," he replied. "I may not have done what they wanted all the time, but I had their best interests at heart."

He made a particular point of thanking those who voted him into office six consecutive times.

Gianino also made the point of his commitment to Burlington regardless of what role, if any, he may play in town government in the future.

"I love the town," he said. "I'm not going anywhere."

Taking control of kids' weight issues

Many parents are having conflicts with their children, and they're not over doing homework or cleaning their rooms. The disagreements are about food and how many of today's youth need guidance about what they eat because of pronounced weight gain.

Research indicates that in the United States 1 out of 3 children is now classified as overweight or obese. With less time spent exercising and more time spent in front of the television or with gaming consoles, children are packing on the pounds. Furthermore, with the harried pace many families keep - including two-income households where there may not be ample time to prepare healthy, lower-fat meals - fast food and convenience items have become the norm.

According to reports from ABCNews, a young child who is obese has a 50 percent chance of becoming an obese adult if he or she is not given help. This also puts the child at risk for heart disease, stroke and diabetes as an adult if the situation is not changed before adulthood.

Experts advise against putting a child on an adult diet. Children have different nutritional needs and there needs to be enough food to fuel a growing body.

Another thing that parents often contend with is picky eaters who are not apt to simply cut one thing out of a diet and replace it with a healthier alternative.

A smarter idea is to consult with a pediatrician or a nutritionist who specializes in pediatrics. He or she can present a meal plan that fits with the dietary needs of the child but is also healthy enough to promote weight loss. Adult diets may harm a child's health because they limit certain things that a child needs to process vitamins and minerals, such as certain levels of fat.

One of the best things to do is to get children moving. Regular exercise is an ideal way to burn off the calories and fat that is not needed. Implement daily activities, such as taking walks, playtime in the yard and sports games so that kids are moving instead of sitting in front of the television.

Here are some other ideas that may work.

* Limit electronics use so that kids will have to get their fun from physical activities.

* Don't make a big deal about body weight. A 12-year study at Stanford University found that parents who are very controlling about food put too much pressure on their children to be thin. This can lead to eating disorders. Parents who push diets may have children who are overweight years later.

* Eat regular meals as a family. Eating meals together instead of grazing and snacking can promote better eating habits.

* Remove unhealthy foods from the home. Kids will eat what is convenient. If there are no unhealthy snacks around, they'll have to choose from others, like fresh fruits and low-fat items.

* Serve meals from the stove. Portion out food items onto each person's plate instead of putting a large quantity of food in the middle of the table. This can help regulate portion sizes and prevent overeating.

* Don't make everything off-limits. Have a few "splurge" items around so that kids won't feel deprived. Low-fat frozen yogurt can satisfy like ice cream. Lower-fat cookies can replace the unhealthy kind. Chances are kids won't even realize they're eating healthier.

* Skip sodas and sugary drinks. Encourage children to drink water, fruit juices and low-fat milk instead of filling up on sugary drinks.

Parents can make their children feel loved and supported no matter their weight. Taking an interest in a child's health involves being aware of eating and food issues that can lead to obesity.

a Craftsman door and a sidelight.

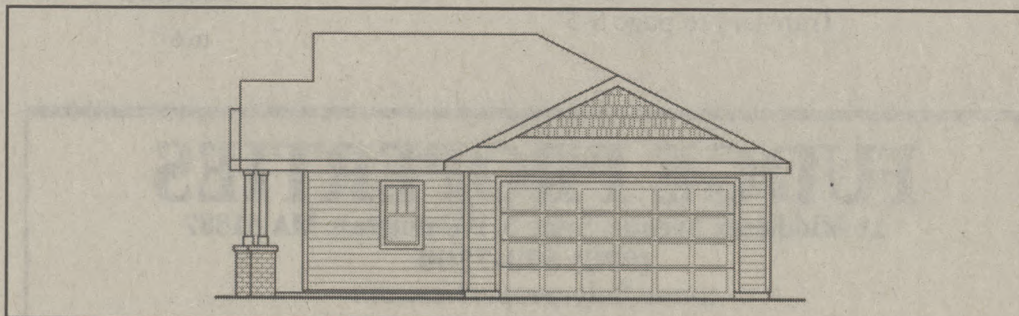

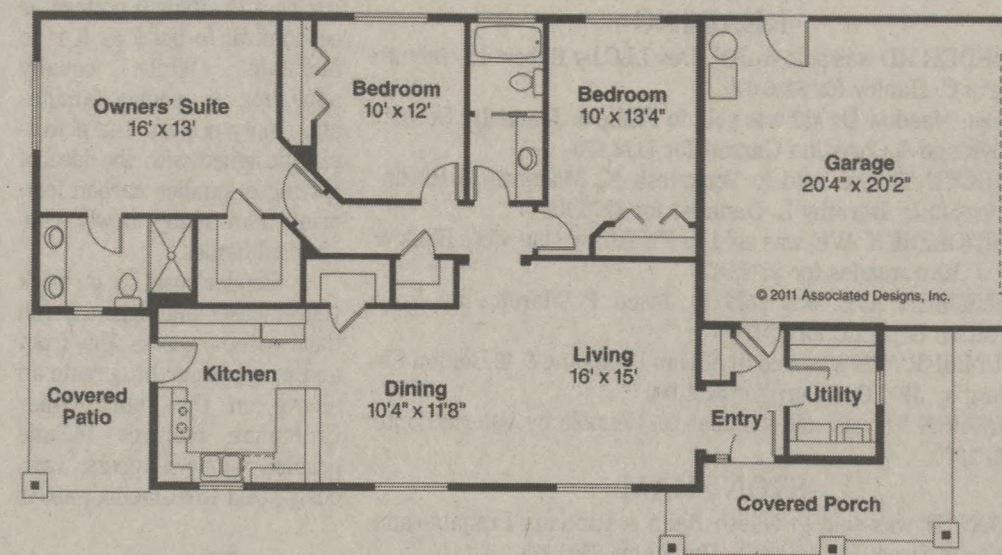

Inside, the entry is suffused in natural light that washes in through the sidelight and upper section of the door. A convenient coat closet and access to the two-car garage are straight ahead. The utility room to the right is outfitted with cabinets and a folding counter.

Turning left brings you into a bright and spacious informal gathering space where the living room flows into the dining area. And that's not the end of it.

A peninsular counter rimmed by a flush eating bar is all that separates the dining area from the kitchen, giving the large gathering space an even more expansive feel. A roomy walk-in pantry sits at the juncture of the kitchen and dining room. The covered patio off the opposite side of the kitchen could easily be screened, if pesky bugs are a persistent problem.

Bedrooms fill the rear section of the Hopewell. The owners' suite has a large walk-in closet and a private bathroom with a dual vanity and an oversized shower. Secondary bedrooms share a two-section bathroom, allowing two people to use it at once.
